THOS. G. JONES

Will Lead the Democratic Hosts to Victory!

He is Nominated Amid a Scene Never Equalled in Alabama Before.

THE OPPOSITION GRACEFULLY YIELD.

Kolb Makes a Speech and Arouses His Unswerving Allegiance to the Democratic Party—The Capital City a Scene of the Wildest Excitement.

MONTGOMERY, May 31.—At the conclusion of the balloting Friday night the combined opposition to Kolb saw that it was necessary to center on some one man to prevent his nomination. The opposition delegations were caucused all night and it was found that the only man who could carry enough votes for a majority was Thomas G. Jones, of Montgomery.

Accordingly when the balloting was resumed this morning and Autauga cast its two votes for Jones which had hitherto been going elsewhere, there was a deafening applause, because it was seen that a combination had been made that would prevent the nomination of Reuben F. Kolb. As the call of the counties progressed the opposition votes all went to the Jones column, with the exception of a few contests. When Calhoun was called the 11 votes of that county were given to Jones.

When this vote was announced a delegate, Mr. Stephens, challenged the vote, and after a heated discussion the chair decided that the challenged counties would be considered as a whole after the roll was called, and before the result was announced. The counties down the line voted for either Jones or Kolb until Cullman was reached, when that county voted as it always did, giving Richardson its strength. The challenged counties were Calhoun, Cherokee, Colbert, Lee, Jefferson, Limestone, Montgomery, Pickens, Russell, Shelby, Wilcox voted as it has always voted, Kolb 10; Jones 5; Crook, 1. Challenges against all counties withdrawn except that of Cherokee and Montgomery.

Cherokee's vote was settled by the delegation voting 9 for Kolb and one for Jones.

In the matter of the Montgomery county contest one of the delegates insisted that he had the right to cast his vote as he pleased and he desired to cast it for R. F. Kolb.

Capt. Falkner read the unit resolution adopted by the county convention of Montgomery county. Capt. Falkner explained in a clear cut speech the method by which the convention selected and instructed its delegation.

The delegate explained the reason of his objection to the proposed vote. Mr. G. C. Gilder explained the methods of selecting delegates from Montgomery county, and stated that the Kolb men in the county convention pledged themselves to vote for Col. Jones whether instructed or not, and on this pledge the Kolb men were allowed to select their delegates and had it not been for their pledge the objected gentlemen would not be allowed a seat on the floor of this convention.

Mr. Thomas McCullough stated to the convention his views, that he was representing his beat, and asked the body if it proposed to stifle the little minority and not allow the members of the weak minority to vote as they pleased.

Mr. McCullough's speech created a great deal of merriment. It was a plea to the majority to allow five Montgomery beats to vote as the people of the beats they represented desired them to vote.

J. P. Oliver, of Tallapoosa, addressed the convention, urging that the body give an honest expression of the voice of the people. Oliver's speech was a strong one, and while it was lengthy it was fairly well received and was listened to with interest.

Heater D. Lane was opposed to Hayseed W. S. White of Colbert, trying to stifle the vote of Hayseed Tom Root.

Mr. Davis, of Fayette, was in favor of representation. He was in favor of individual representation in the beat meetings, beat representation in county conventions, and county representation in State conventions.

The chair took question of how delegates of Montgomery must vote, under advisement, and he decided that the vote of the county must be cast for Col. Jones.

In stating reasons Col. Denson made clear and logical explanation of the reasons for his decision, holding that the voice of the Montgomery county convention is the sovereign voice of the democrats of that county. He cited the decision of the national convention in 1884, when the convention enforced the unit rule in the case of the vote of New York State.

Col. Denson's decision was received with storms of cheering.

Mayor Hard, of Bessemer, announced that he decided to change his vote from Kolb to Jones.

Etowah changed the vote of the county from 3 for Kolb and 5 for Jones to 8 for Jones.

The thirty-fourth ballot then stood with respect to the two candidates:

Henry D. Clayton addressed the chair, eulogizing the staunch democracy of Reuben F. Kolb. For the sake of the peace of the party's future, he withdrew the name of R. F. Kolb and moved that the nomination of Thos. G. Jones be made unanimous.

When Henry D. Clayton, the gallant young statesman of Barbour, rose to address the chair, all present in the hall knew what it meant, all knew that Mr. Clayton would eulogize his friend, Capt. Kolb, and after withdrawing his name from before the convention he moved unanimous nomination of Col. Thos. G. Jones.

This was what Mr. Clayton did. He spoke from his heart, and in no other position in his life probably, did Mr. Clayton more ably display his manliness and his devoted loyalty to his friend. His speech was an impassioned effort, and a sublime tribute to the constancy and faithfulness of Capt. Kolb to the cause of true Democracy, and to the personal bravery of Capt. Kolb in defending the cause of the party in the dark days of reconstruction.

When Mr. Clayton's motion was put to the house and adopted, there came a cheer, or rather a prolonged series of cheering from all parts of the hall, which was deafening and continued several minutes.

Colonel Jones was conducted to the hall by a committee appointed by the chair. He addressed the convention, thanking the body for the honor conferred upon him by the convention, and stated that he was glad that in the recent desperate struggle he felt that he had done nothing to engender bad feeling, and now that the battle was over he felt that the ranks must close together again.

E. F. Tallafiero moved that a committee of three be appointed to wait on Commissioner Kolb and ask him to address the convention. Carried.

Capt. Johnston who was in the hall was called to the stand where he addressed the convention thanking his friends for the support given him in this campaign. He announced his unalterable democracy, and volunteered to fight as he always had in the front ranks of the party. He paid a glowing tribute to Col. Jones, and urged union in the party to elect him by an overwhelming majority.

Capt. Kolb was introduced and addressed the convention expressing his deep gratitude to the delegates who had been here so long, so earnestly fighting his battle. He had no feeling of animosity for the gentlemen who contested with him the candidacy for the office, and for the excellent gentlemen who supported them, fighting him in an open, frank way, he has the highest esteem. He tendered his services to stamp the State for Jones. He hoped the bitterness of the campaign, as indulged in by the press of the State would be closed with this nomination.

Judge Richardson was invited into the convention and addressed the body in a frank open manner, thanking his friends for the very dattering support accorded to him by his friends. He called attention to the fact that the people of the South are threatened with a great peril, from the power of combines, monopolies and trusts, and he felt that to circumvent the danger, union in the Democracy of the South was a paramount requisite.

Col. Ferguson, of Jefferson, of the committee appointed to wait on Captain Crook, reported that the Captain was indisposed. Amid great confusion the convention adjourned till 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The convention was called to order. The session started off with a great deal of by-play, which put the house in good humor, after which the order of business was taken up.

Mr. Whitfield, of Tuscaloosa, offered a resolution defining the manner of appointing executive committees.

Mr. Collier of Chilton, offered a resolution requiring executive committees to prescribe a test in primary elections. Referred to Committee on platform.

The name of J. B. Stanley of Butler, was placed in nomination for secretary of state.

The name of J. D. Barron was placed in nomination.

The ballot resulted Stanley 238, Barron 288.

Hon. C. D. Hogue, of Perry, was unanimously nominated for Auditor.

Hon. J. L. Cobbs, of Montgomery, was unanimously nominated as candidate for Treasurer.

The names of Hon. W. L. Martin, of Jackson, Hon. L. W. Martin, of Russell, and Hon. Dan Collier, of Fayette, were placed in nomination for Attorney-General.

The roll was called and the first ballot stood.

W. L. Martin 208, Collier 203, L. W. Martin 115.

The name of L. W. Martin was withdrawn and the second ballot stood, Martin 315-35, Collier 207-25.

Mr. Harris was nominated Superintendent of Education.

BIOGRAPHY OF COL. JONES.

Col. Thomas G. Jones, of Montgomery, the nominee for Governor of Alabama, was born in Macon, Ga., in 1844 and is now in the 46th year of his age. He is the son of the late Samuel G. Jones, who was one of the pioneers of Southern development.

At the outbreak of the late war Col. Jones was a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute, and though young he left that school to enter actively in the service of the Confederate army. He filled several positions in the service before being appointed aid-de-camp to General John R. Gordon, now Governor of Georgia. He was a brave, faithful and capable soldier, and for his display of gallantry at Bristol he was promoted to assistant adjutant general to Gen. Gordon and was afterwards promoted to major and assistant adjutant general of the second corps of the Army of Northern Virginia, in which position he continued until the cessation of hostilities.

After the close of the war Col. Jones returned to Montgomery. His collegiate education had been interrupted by the civil war. He began the study of law and was admitted to practice in this city. He was at one time a law partner of the late Judge Samuel F. Rice.

Col. Jones has been an active participant in all the struggles county and State, since the days of reconstruction, and contributed all in his power to achieve the victory which wrested control of city, county and State from Republican domination.

He served the city of Montgomery faithfully and ably as an alderman from ward four for six or eight years, resigning that position on his election as a member of the House of Representatives from this county in 1884. He was re-elected to the House in 1886, receiving at the primary election to nominate officers nearly every vote cast in the county and running far ahead of all other candidates. At this session of the legislature, he was chosen 'speaker' of the House and discharged the duties of that high position in a manner which reflected credit upon himself as well as upon his State and county. He was a calm, prudent and painstaking member, acting at all times up to what he conceived to be for the best interests of the people whose representative he was.

Col. Jones is a man of slight build; of excellent address and possessed of many integrity of the highest order. As a lawyer he ranks high in the profession; as a citizen, he is enthusiastic upon the subject of Alabama and progressive in his ideas of its development; as a democrat he is tried and true and as a man he is without fear never hesitating at the call of duty no matter from what quarters demand may come. He is a man of good judgment and one who possesses in abundance the qualities which fit him to occupy any position in life.

A TRIBUTE TO CAPT. CROOK.

Calhoun's candidate made a manly campaign for Governor, free from harness or acrimony. He won the esteem of thousands all over the State. The Montgomery Journal says of him:

Capt. James Crook was one man on whom all eyes were turned. He is well known and universally popular and was the second choice of perhaps more delegates than any other candidate in the field, and he deserved to be. He is genial, warm-hearted and possesses a magnetism that is sure to draw men to him, and when once his friend, always his friend. When he reached Montgomery Tuesday night with a delegation of friends and supporters, his reception was a regular ovation. His stock was low, very low, when he reached Montgomery, but from that moment till late last night it grew, and he grew in favor with the delegates. If he had received the nomination, Capt. Crook would have made an able and popular chief executive.

THE PLATFORM

Upon Which the Democracy of Alabama Will March to Victory.

The following is the platform and declaration of principles adopted by the recent State convention of the Democratic and Conservative party of Alabama:

The Committee on Platform and Resolutions beg leave to unanimously report for the adoption by this convention the following platform and declaration of principles:

First—We reaffirm our unswerving and unalterable fealty and allegiance to the time-honored principles of the Democratic party as promulgated by Jefferson, defended by Jackson and maintained by Grover Cleveland.

Second—We hold that all power is lodged in the people of the several States to direct and control the administration of their governments; subject only to constitutional and self-imposed limitations; and we further hold that any interference on the part of the Federal government in the selection of our Senators and Representatives in Congress is an usurpation of power unwarranted by the Constitution.

Third—We favor a liberal and thorough system of public schools and sufficient appropriations by the General Assembly of the State for that purpose.

Fourth—We heartily endorse the wise and patriotic administration of the government of the State of Alabama for the last two years.

Fifth—We are unalterably opposed to the present high tariff and favor adjustment thereof as will relieve all classes from any unjust burden, and from the effect of unjust discriminations which may tend to oppress the many for the benefit of the few; and we declare that the amount of public revenue raised by taxation should not exceed the requirements of an economical yet dignified administration of the affairs of government at home and abroad and the proper development of such works of public improvements as may, under the Constitution of the United States, be properly undertaken by Federal authority.

Sixth—We declare it to be the duty of our legislators, Federal and State, to adopt in their respective spheres all constitutional methods to prevent the creation and circumscribe the power of monopolies which in their operation have the power to forestall the market or otherwise oppress the people.

Seventh—That it is our mature and conscientious conviction that the welfare of the entire people of the State, without regard to race or color, depends upon the continued administration of public affairs by the Democratic party, which alone combines the intelligence, the experience and virtue necessary to perpetuate the blessings of free government therein; and that the continuation of the power of that party is the highest duty of all white men; and that any effort to divide them upon other issues deserves and should receive unqualified condemnation.

Eighth—We declare that we will, and that it is the duty of all good Democrats to, unqualifiedly support the nominees of the conventions of the party.

AFTER AWHILE.

We will weep for joys untasted,
After awhile;
For the golden moments wasted,
After awhile;
For the pledges we have broken,
For the words we should have spoken
For the love without a token,
After awhile.

Will no pleasing tender fancies,
After awhile,
Shy and sweet as stolen glances,
After awhile,
Come, like olden friends to greet us,
Kiss us, thrill us when they meet us,
And be pleasure for to seek us,
After awhile?

O, the golden, bright hereafter—
After awhile!
Soon'll come with mirth and laughter
After awhile;
Sings the soul with sorrow saddened,
And the brain with grief is maddened
But the heart repeats ungladdened,
"After awhile."

Death is coming nearer, nearer,
After awhile;
Life is growing dearer, dearer,
After awhile.
Soon, too soon, will come the weeping,
For the fount of tears is keeping,
Tears for those who'll then be sleeping,
After awhile.

Tears, alas! will not avail you,
After awhile;
But regret will fast assail you,
After awhile;
And the friend, perhaps a lover,
You, in life, could not discover,
You will find when all is over—
After awhile.

But this life is worth the living,
After awhile,
Is a siren strain that's giving,
After awhile,
An excuse for wrongs unrighted,
For the duties we have slighted;
Till, at last, cries conscience, blighted
"After awhile."

The Perils of Youth.

How few have any material sympathy for youth at that period when "Standing with reluctant feet Where the brook and river meet." They are urged forward by nature's stern decree to assume the powers and duties of manhood and womanhood. And yet this is the most critical point in the voyage of human life. Then it is that a shattered nervous system reaches its crisis and ignorance seizes its opportunity to plant the seed of future ill-health and misery. Then, it is, the quack who secures his victim and his purse. This is the occasion when the hand of experience should take the hand of inexperience and guide its feet to the solid rock upon the further shore. At the approach of puberty and during the first years of this new order of being, there are weakening tendencies that should be guarded against. A medicine that has the power to strengthen the various parts of the body and to regulate and give control to its various functions is essential at frequent intervals. Such a medicine has the eminent Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky., given to the world. It is known as Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Don't fall into the hands of quacks, but demand this remedy of your druggist. Take no other. It is exactly what is needed and will carry you safely through to strength and robust health.

The Power of Money.

What an influence for good or evil is exerted by the proper or improper use of money. It seems to be the first essential of modern life. Sad indeed is the lot of that man or that woman without money and without friends. Especially in cases of sickness is the need of money felt most pressing, and yet even the rich with all their money fall into a state of poor health and die, whereas if their money was rightly expended and the proper remedies applied they might retain health and strength.

R. A. Clark, Atlanta, Ga., says: "I spent four hundred and eighty dollars in gold to cure me of terrible blood poison that effected my limbs and nose and body, with running ulcers. One month's treatment of B. B. B. healed the ulcers, restored my appetite, strengthened my kidneys and added 21 pounds to my weight."

Still in spite of this and much other testimony there are many who refuse to try the remedy, seeming to prefer to pay large fees to physicians or visit distant springs in vain hopes of recovery. The great truth ever shines brightly and that is that no one who ever gave B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) a trial ever found disappointment therein.

O. H. Rudolph, Talladega, Fla., writes: "I had blood disease for six years, but nothing benefited me, although I paid two hundred and fifty dollars for treatment. At last I tried B. B. B. and found it a quick and cheap blood purifier."

We have a speedy and positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker Mouth and Headache, in Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. A Nasal Injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents.

Hon. Thos. G. Jones

Mobile Register.

The nomination of Col. Thomas G. Jones, of Montgomery, by the State Democratic convention as a candidate for governor, presents to the people of Alabama for their suffrage a man of bright intellect, upright character, and indomitable industry. He has shown himself in every walk of life to be possessed of honest convictions and manly courage to maintain those convictions. His service to the state have been signally important and successful. He has been a leader in the ranks of our civil soldiery—showing discretion, wisdom, patience and skill. As a lawyer he has won laurels at the bar, and although, the retained counsel of a great railroad corporation, he was honest and independent in opposition to legislation sought for by his client, whenever his judgment disapproved it, never for one moment sinking his character as a legislator into the expediency of the advocate. Colonel Jones was for ten years a large planter and every sympathy of his great heart goes out to that class of our people upon whose prosperity all other classes depend. He was a soldier in our civil war, distinguished for coolness and courage. Every pulse of his heart beats in sympathy for his old comrades. As a citizen his private life has been above reproach. His gentle demeanor, his patience and endurance, his nobility of mind and warmth of heart, have compassed him about with a host of personal friends. Altogether he is a man of strong and well-balanced judgment, and of beautiful character. His modesty is equal to his merit. At the outset of this canvass he was urged by his friends to visit the various counties and seek the support of the people by personal interviews. He naturally shrank from this mode of candidacy. Finally at the last he consented to make addresses to the people. To the surprise of even his warmest admirers these addresses proved to be models of compact logic and rare eloquence. They were quoted not only in Alabama but in other States. They exhibited none of the acts of the demagogue, but were clear and confident appeals to the common sense of the people avoiding no issue and admitting and defending every principle which he held. No man has any doubts as to his position. He rose at once immeasurably in the estimation of the people. No man could say a word against him or his views of public policy.

It is not surprising that such a man, with so clean a record, should have finally secured the friendship of all candidates and adherents. The fact that his nomination was made unanimous is sufficient proof that he has no enemies opposed to his person or his policy, and that the great Democratic masses of the State will rally with unanimity around his standard. The Register congratulates the people of Alabama upon the selection they have made. Thos. G. Jones as Governor of Alabama, will be the peer of any Governor in the United States, and Alabama under his wise leadership, can proudly stand in the foremost rank of states.

I have been an invalid since my sixteenth year, until five months ago, I began a use of Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Now at the age of twenty-three I feel myself, for the first time, a man filled with health and ambition. I want you to publish this, although I do not sign my true name.—James Smith, Lexington, Ky.

The Governor May be a Democrat.

Portland, Ore., June 2.—The meagre returns received from the elections in this state today indicate the election of Bugar Hermann, republican, for congress, by from 4000 to 6000 majority. The vote for governor will be close, but returns received seem favorable to Pennoyer, democrat. In the legislature the republicans will probably have a majority on joint ballot.

The demonstration made in Montgomery Saturday was the spontaneous expression of joy and gladness on the part of the people of Montgomery over the selection of their highly honored, gallant and chivalrous fellow-citizen. It was in no way an exultation over those who had been vanquished because it was a family fight, and when the nomination was made the ranks were closed up and all differences healed. It was a grand occasion.—Montgomery Advertiser.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 2.—One of the most disastrous wrecks to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad occurred two miles west of its junction with the Santa Fe Railroad. A train of double-deck cars, loaded with some five thousand fine merino mutton sheep, on the way from California to the Chicago market, was wrecked by the breaking of a truck. Every car but two was destroyed and about one thousand sheep killed outright. The Indians of the neighborhood worked all night skinning carcasses. They will have mutton for months to come.

After Capt. Crook retired from the field for Governor, Messrs. Stephens and Vinson of this county voted for Mr. Kolb. In doing this they represented their immediate constituents and did right. The county convention had not imposed the unit rule on the delegation further than to vote for Capt. Crook so long as he was before the convention.

The State Republican Convention, held in Montgomery this week, nominated Noble Smithson for Governor, James M. Vernon for Secretary of State, John T. Ezell for Attorney-General, D. B. Booth for State Treasurer, Eli Jennings for Auditor, Amos Fowler for Superintendent of Education. All the nominees are white. The convention was a lively one and several speakers declared that the Democratic party was divided and that the Republicans would carry the day. They will find out about that division when election day comes.

The newspapers are talking glibly about the combination to beat Kolb. This is all bosh. The matter shaped itself up to that end. He was the strongest candidate and naturally all made common cause against him, just as the players in a game of "seven up" (see Hoyle on Games) conspire to keep the man who is already six from getting seven. The so-called combination was not one of hostility to Kolb but of necessity to the other four candidates. It was heads and tails who could win if Kolb were beaten. Lightning might strike any one of them. So, in self interest they suffered their friends to counsel and to take them down or keep them up. Mr. Kolb said in his speech afterwards that lightning had struck right and that he had rather Tom Jones had got it than any other man in the field. So far as our local candidate, Capt. Crook, was concerned, the Kolb forces opposed him. But for this as for anything else Capt. Crook's friends bear no malice. Jones is worthy. Kolb showed himself a true man in offering to canvass the State for him. We are all once more a happy family, thank God! Let us stand together, for the Philistines be upon us!

DEATH OF MR. NED LEE.

In the death of Mr. Ned Lee, of Alexandria Valley, Calhoun county has lost a gallant Confederate soldier and a golden-hearted gentleman. Loyal to his friends, devoted to his family, true to his party, his State and his country, his death is a loss to all. Peace to his ashes.

The writer will ever cherish his memory as a war comrade. The community in which he moved will keep green his grave, because of his innate nobility of character, his bravery, his loyalty, his single-hearted honesty. He walked the humbler paths of life, but he was no less the gentleman. In that walk are to be found at last the men who sacrifice themselves for the public good—the men who, distrustful of their own abilities, give expression to their patriotic desires and voice themselves through their loyal support of men who can command the attention of "listening senators," who can speak, who can write and who can shape political destinies. Men of his type are often greater than the men they create; but they cannot appear by reason of defect of education, station in life, modesty of disposition, and generally, the possession of graces that do not belong to their exponents.

It is such men who illustrate the valor of nations and wreath laurels for men who pass into history, themselves unknown and whose graves remain unmarked. It is such men who suffered at Valley Forge, and whose bloodstained feet pressed the sharp stones about Gettysburg. When one of them dies it is a calamity to the State. They are the men who follow the plow, who argue the questions that affect them with God alone, having no other hearer or disputant. They are the men who bear the burdens and complain not, if it be for the good of the public. They are the men who die in armies for their fellow-men if need be. They are the men who exemplify Christ in their self-abnegation and spirit of sacrifice; and yet who, like Him, if they will it, could let the tempest rage to the ends of destruction.

Mr. Lee was a type. Let us not forget that there are many duplicates of him. They deserve our most distinguished consideration, both from motives of justice and motives of gratitude.

The Blue Mountain Mineral received an accession of force Friday and work is going on livelier than ever, and Mr. Gaboury is happy.

The officers of the Jacksonville Mining and Manufacturing Company are happy over the prices received for lots in Tredgar, addition and things are moving ahead right away for the great autumn sale which will be the most extensive affair of the kind yet in the south.

People here generally are happy over the bright prospect for the town.

Capt. Crook, Calhoun's choice for Governor, was too indisposed to go before the Convention and make a speech after the nomination for Governor was made; but he made a rattling good one the day of the rally. He was pronounced by a very prominent member of the Jefferson delegation to be the best speech of the evening.

Capt. Crook accepts defeat gracefully and has already begun to work in the canvass for the Democratic nominee. He can say nothing too good for deserving Tom Jones.

The telegraph wires of Thursday brought appalling accounts of loss of life and property in the north-west from storms.

LOCATING RUBE BURROW.

Birmingham, Ala., June 4.—Detective Sullivan, in the employ of the Southern Express company, returned to night from Lamar county, Alabama, where he has been working up a case for the company. A part of his business in Lamar county was to locate the noted train robber and outlaw Rube Burrow, which he succeeded in doing. Burrow is living quietly in a little cabin, located in a secluded spot in the wildest part of Lamar county. He spends his time hunting, fishing and working at a moonshine still. He is surrounded by relatives and friends, who would fight for him at a moment's notice. He seems to have no fear of capture. The express company will send a number of men back with Sullivan to attempt the capture of the great outlaw, but a new plan of war will be adopted this time. The detectives will not go in a squad, and enable the outlaw to receive due notice of their coming. They will attempt this capture by strategy this time. Detective Sullivan says almost every man in the locality where Burrow is in hiding is a friend of the outlaw, and his capture will be no easy matter.

A special from Birmingham says: Frank Delan, the young Tennesseean who took morphine here last night with suicidal intent, died this morning from the effects of the dose. His remains were sent to his relatives in Nashville, Tenn. No cause can be learned for his rashness. He told a friend yesterday afternoon that life was scarcely worth living, and he wished he could be blown away and disappear from the world without succumbing. He was not in love or in debt.

Four members of a family poisoned by eating wild parsnips near Lake George, Ontario, are now dead and it is feared three others will die.

AT EARLY MORNING.

Two Louisville Merchants Fight a Duel.

Louisville, Ky., June 2.—The most thrilling sensation of years occurred here this morning, being a duel between two well-known merchants, in which one of the duellists received a wound which it is thought would prove fatal.

The duel took place in Cave Hill cemetery shortly after daylight and was witnessed only by the seconds of the two combatants and the surgeon. The men who fought were William Overby and John Sanders. The weapons used were pistols and after the first fire Sanders fell mortally wounded.

When Sanders fell and the surgeon pronounced the wound probably fatal, Overby and his second at once left the State. The second of the wounded man went to the house of the cemetery keeper and told him that there was a wounded man in the enclosure after which he took his departure. The cemetery keeper did not know the man that called on him and finding the wounded man alone, telephoned to the chief of police, who sent out a patrol wagon to remove him. Sanders refused to say anything about the affair other than that he and Overby had fought a duel. He refused to divulge the names of the seconds or the surgeons.

Four or five hundred teachers from all portions of the south are expected to be present. Some of the most distinguished educators in the southern states will be present, and the proceedings are expected to be of unusual interest to teachers every where.

Didn't Have a Chance.

Magistrate—What, sir, you arrived here this morning by the early train, and half an hour later you were arrested for stealing? This is frightful.

Prisoner (coolly)—Frightful! I should just think it is frightful. Why, I hadn't even time to look round the town.

A Good Citizen Gone.

Mr. Robert Lloyd, one of the wealthiest, most prominent and highly respected men in Calhoun county, and brother of Uncle Jackie Lloyd, of this city, died at his home near Woodruff Station, on the A. & C. road Wednesday night from internal injuries received by being thrown from his horse a week or two ago.—Anniston Hot Blast.

We reprint from the Hot Blast so much of the proceedings of the State Democratic Convention as will give our readers some idea of it. It would take four such papers as the Republican to print all of the proceedings. The Convention was harmonious throughout and always good natured, though at times the interest was intense.

What Kind of Advertising Pays?

So many houses are now claiming in large type, each to sell goods, from 20 to 50 per cent. cheaper than any other house, that we believe sensible people disgusted with these improbable yarns, are paying but little attention to display ads. For that reason we have taken but little space in the papers but have adopted the plan of advertising our own counters by offering every week some new things at less than real value, and by keeping every department fresh all the time with novelties. It seems to work well. Our trade is growing very fast.

This week we shall offer many styles of WASH DRESS GOODS, including Thin Black Goods, White Goods, Printed Mulls, Batiste, Lawns, Challus and Scotch and French Ginghams. They are all marked in plain figures. Drop in and look at them.

DEATH OF MRS. W. P. COOPER.

Mrs. W. P. Cooper, of Alexandria, died Sunday after a long and painful illness. Her death was not unexpected, but yet the announcement of it came with a great shock to her many friends in this county who knew and loved her. The house of her husband was the home of hospitality and it was her pleasure always to meet and entertain her friends with that kind cordiality that distinguished her. The writer remembers with pleasure one meal at that hospitable board and will always recall the good woman who presided with feelings of pleasure mingled with pain. Her sufferings were borne with more than Christian fortitude and resignation. Her faith in God was sublime and unwavering. She has gone to her reward and her memory alone remains with us. The deep and heartfelt sympathy of this community goes out to the husband and children in this greatest affliction that can ever come to them.

The Commencement Exercises of the State Normal School will all take place in the College Chapel on the following dates:

June 8, 11 a. m., commencement sermon—Rev. Philip Fitts, Anniston, Ala.

June 9, 8 p. m., Calisthenic Drill.

June 10, 8 p. m., Concert.

June 11, 10 a. m., Normal Exhibition.

To these exercises all the patrons and friends of the school are cordially invited.

Upon the earnest solicitation of a number of the students of the State Normal college, young men of the town, Piedmont and neighboring towns, Prof. McKee has consented to remain in Jacksonville during the summer and teach a commercial course. Our rapidly developing city will soon demand young men in possession of a thorough business education, to fill its many responsible and lucrative positions, and these offices should be filled by our own young men. Prof. McKee's rates of tuition are very low and we trust that all who can, will avail themselves of this opportunity of securing a business education.

Notice his announcement in another column of this paper.

Mr. Haskell Righter, of Helena, Ark., is in the city visiting friends.

The Death of Mrs. Vernon.

Mrs. Lettie Vernon, wife of H. F. Vernon of this place, died Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. She had been an invalid for twenty years with paralysis and suffered much; but her faith and courage was sublime. She was a good and noble woman. The tender sympathy of our whole community go to the bereaved family.

The Circuit Rider.

The life of the itinerant minister, especially if he happens to be of the Methodist persuasion, is not strewn with roses, nor smiled on by fortune. But that is if we contemplate it from a worldly point of view. He usually enters upon this life with a clear understanding of its arduous duties and is fully consecrated to the work. The unwritten history of the Methodist itinerant alone would fill an interesting volume—or perhaps several of them; and we do not have to turn the leaves of a century to find illustrations of the pain and pathos, the self-sacrifice, the sorrow and humility, the joy and exaltation of the circuit rider's life. Before the day when good Lorenzo Dow braved winter's cold and snows and rode through files of hostile Indians to his appointments in the wilds, parting with even his personal apparel for food to sustain life upon the way—there were voices crying in the wilderness and proclaiming the gospel of Christ. And to-day the circuit rider makes his rounds as then, leading a life almost as arduous and full of self-denial.

But there is a humorous side to the circuit rider's life, as well as a pathetic. For the most part they are happy and contented men, who find a peculiar pleasure in the work. It is related of an old itinerant minister that, having been offered as a gift the titles to a house and lot, he declined them without hesitation. "For," said he, "if I became the owner of them, I could not then sing with a clear conscience, as I ride to my appointments, that good old hymn:

"No foot of land do I possess,
No cottage in this wilderness—
A poor, wayfaring man! So, keep your house and lot, and let me keep my song."

Yet another itinerant, who is now well known in Georgia, relates his experience thus: "I started on my first circuit with flattering prospects. I had to ride thirty miles to my appointments, on a horse which was as weak as my faith, and I had to feed my wife, my horse and myself, and save souls on ninety dollars a year! But the neighbors gave me a 'pound' party every Christmas and a promise of a raise in salary three times a year. But the Lord will provide. I married a rich man once, and he gave me $50. With this money my wife bought a sewing machine. I traded the machine for a pony, sold the pony for $100, and that kept us going until I got a local appointment at $400 a year, and then we felt rich and thanked the Lord who had delivered us."

A member of the South Georgia conference who, though now advanced in years, still rides a circuit, had a similar experience. "He got sixty dollars and eleven hogs for his first year's work. 'The hogs,' he said, 'were large, fat ones, and I contemplated selling them for a good price; but one day there came a thunder storm and a flash of lightning killed them all! I felt like a bankrupt when I saw them lying dead before me. But two or three days afterwards I saw a drove of lean buzzards hovering about their carcasses, and the thought came to me, 'These birds are lean and hungry, and lo! the Lord feedeth them!' And then I was reconciled to the loss of my hogs, and went on preaching the gospel and praising God on sixty dollars!"

What beautiful lives they lead—these meek, unassuming, consecrated men, braving all dangers, by day and night, denying themselves, taking up their cross and following in the footsteps of their master—Christ! No one knows all the hardships they endure—the privations they suffer. But they are fighting a good fight; they are keeping the faith; and when their course is finished they will receive the sweet "well done" of faithful servants and shall be crowned with an especial crown.—Constitution.

THE SUNDAY SERMON.
Last Sunday there was preachin' an' we all went out to hear; The little church was crowded, for the rich and poor was there; it was just a splendid sermon, an' the singin', full and free; "Amaria" grace, how sweet the sound that saved a wretch like me.
When I call the sermon splendid, I mean it was the kind To take deep root an' bear good fruit in every sinner's mind; 'Twas jes' a plain, old-fashioned talk, 'bout any pulp'it wind; "I will go unto my father an' tell him I have sinned."
'Twas all about the prodigal who spent his livin' neat, Until at last he came to want the husks the swine did eat; But a sweet thought gave him comfort when he hardly wished to live; "I will go unto my father, for my father will forgive."
"I'm talkin' to you feller," said the preacher "here today, Who've spent the Master's livin' in a country far away; You've got to where this feller was—you can't tell why or how— But come back to the Father; he is waiting for you now!"
That's Farmer Jones—he took it home; the tear came to his eye; Said he: "The preacher's hittin' hard; he'll git thar by and by;" An' the women—they was weepin', an' this poor sinner, too, Felt the hot tears streamin' down his cheeks like mercy's healing dew.
"Come home!" the preacher shouted "come home where all is bright; Where there's never any weepin', where there's never any night; Come home! The Father calls you, the merciful an' true; An' I reckon that he means it, for he shed his blood for you!"
From the amen corner to the door the people gathered near, An' "pray for us!" they shouted, and it seemed the Lord was there! An' such a great han' shakin'—well, the blessed time is past; But the old church in the back woods got a blessin' that'll last.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by J. F. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case of catarrh that it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. A Finland paper mentions a curious stone in the northern part of that country which serves the people instead of a barometer. This stone, which they call "Ilmakiuri," turns black, or blackish gray, when foul weather is approaching; fine weather has the effect of turning it almost white.
The Indians of northern British Columbia "bury their dead" by hanging them in large trees. The Shwosh tribe had 300 of their ancestors swung up in this manner, and when hunters set the forest on fire the bodies, dried by years of exposure, burned like tar barrels. The Indians are terribly excited and threaten vengeance.
A Record of Sixty Years.
Sixty years ago S. S. S. was made in an ordinary iron pot; fifteen years ago it was prepared in large sugar kettles, and now it requires a great number of large steam-tight percolators to supply the demand, and takes the product of a large glass furnace to furnish a sufficient number of bottles. S. S. S. is known all over the English-speaking world, and in many places where English is not spoken. These simple facts are worth more to a sick man than a train load of arguments. If you have had any blood disease you should take this great vegetable remedy. If there is pulmonary disease, take it yourself and give it to your children. If you have ever taken the mercury and potash mixtures, you should take S. S. S. to clear your system of the poison.
CAUTION—Like every other article of merit S. S. S. is imitated, aped, and pirated on by all sorts of shapes sizes of impecunious creatures who hope to make money on its reputation. Many of these vile compounds contain Mercury, Potash, Arsenic, and other poisons, are positively dangerous to use. An imitation is always a fraud, and flourishes only as it can rob the public. There is only one S. S. S. and there is nothing like it. Be sure to get the genuine.

TRADE WITH US.

It's a Unique position we occupy as Leaders. This is forcibly indicated by the scores who interview us daily on styles. As we are asked, our judgment must be valued. If we know—as we do— isn't it most natural we should pattern our stock accordingly? Certainly.
The Dealers who do so much talking about the amount of money they save to the purchasers of clothing are the very ones who are making it more expensive. For instance you cannot get a whole page advertisement for nothing. Neither can any man or concern afford to sell you goods for LESS than COST and succeed.
Those who advertise goods at one half or one third of their value are still making profits big enough to pay for all the charity they do to their customers.

JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN.

ESTABLISHED 1837.

JACKSONVILLE, CALHOUN COUNTY, ALA., SATURDAY, JUNE 14, 1890.

VOLUME 54.

WASHINGTON.

SOME INTERESTING STATEMENTS ABOUT DR. C. W. MACUNE.

Congressmen Have No Confidence In Him—Texas People Laying for Him.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The average Southern member of Congress is annoyed, to say the least of it, that because he cannot conscientiously support the Farmers' Alliance subsidy bill it should be heralded to his constituents and to the farmers of the country that he is an enemy of the farmer.

The Southern men are talking about this a great deal and they are unanimously of the opinion that the farmers have been unfortunate in the selection of their leaders here. Col. L. L. Polk, the president of the Alliance, is, however, an exception. He is recognized as an honest man and a hard worker—a man who has the interest of the farmer at heart, but he is kept so busy over-looking the order, traveling around, talking to the people and answering correspondence that he has no time to give to politics nor can he find time to go about the halls of Congress to look after legislation. This matter is in the hands of a legislative committee, but that committee is in such bad odor, owing to its personality, that the Congressmen that it is absolutely worthless to the farmers. A Congressman, when one of these men approaches him feels that he is in the presence of his worst enemy. Indeed these men, with their dictatorial manners, are held in the most supreme contempt by the large majority of Representatives. Their conduct has indeed been such that some of the Southern men have taken the pains to examine into the past records and general character of these men. Some startling things have been unearthed. Among other things that one of them is believed to have been a Republican up to very recently and is suspected of being in collusion with them now. A Texas member said the other day he believed this whole movement, as far as the Alliance in politics is concerned, was being engineered in the interest of the Republican party.

Again the members say of Macune, the chairman of the Legislative committee, and the general grand mogul, that it does look rather strange, not to say suspicious, that he should have written letters to the House Agricultural Committee favoring the Compound Land Bill, which would sap the very life-blood from every farmer of the South that he represents.

Again they say another strange thing is, that he should have sent out printed petitions to Alliances all over the South, requesting of Congress to make a six million dollar appropriation for Galveston harbor. These petitions were signed by farmers in every State from Virginia to Texas, and sent back through Macune to the various members to be introduced in Congress, and for each one Macune had the different members to sign receipts when he turned them over. What interest, say the South Atlantic men, have our constituents in Galveston harbor? Still, at Macune's request, they have signed them in preference to petitions for Charleston, or Savannah, or Brunswick, or Mobile.

It is known that certain large railroad corporations controlled by Jay Gould are deeply interested in Galveston and are willing to spend a goodly sum of money to get this appropriation.

There are some very energetic Congressmen who are keeping their eyes open in the interest of their farmer constituents and some of them have been showing around an editorial in the Hopkins county, Texas, Echo, edited by Col. Tate, who Judge Culbertson says, is as reliable a man as there is in Texas, in which all kinds of charges are made against Macune. It states that he voted for the Socialist platform in the St. Louis convention; that he ran the Alliance exchange, at Dallas, into the hands of the sheriff, losing for the Texas farmers a large amount of money; that the farmers had a suspicion that all was not right, and that Macune narrowly escaped being lynched at the hands of the Texas farmers. The article concludes by stating that the farmers of Texas are laying for Macune and his gang with staked clubs.

The Congressmen are reading all this and wondering why the farmers do not take a long look into the character of the men who are supposed to represent them. It is evident that the Congressmen will no longer pay any attention to the demands of this committee.

GEN. W. H. FORNEY TO HON. B. L. ARCHER.

MY DEAR FRIEND:—I write to thank you for your tried, generous and timely support of me in the late Etowah convention. I am told that you opened the ball in my defense, for which rest assured I feel profoundly grateful to you, and appreciate the same to the highest degree. The tales told on me do me great injustice. I have always voted with the rest of the Democrats here for a forfeiture of all land grants. We passed a forfeiture bill last session forfeiting in the United States fifty-five million acres of land. The Republican senate by their bill only forfeited five millions. The two houses did not agree and the land-grant-forfeiture bill failed to pass. I am to-day favoring the forfeiture of all the lands in Alabama. The Alabama delegation, last congress, all voting for it, passed a law for Alabama withdrawing all the public lands in the State from sale, and only allowing the lands to be entered in Alabama under the homestead law, which gives to every person the right to enter 160 acres if he does not own any land, and to enter enough to make 160 acres with what he owns. After we passed this bill another law was passed by congress for the lands in the United States to be only subject to entry under the homestead law. Our Alabama law was made general for the whole of the United States except the State of Missouri. I have done all I could for the Coosa river, and always succeeded in getting an appropriation for the Coosa river when any other State got an appropriation. We will get for the Coosa this year three hundred thousand dollars—that is, we will pass it through the house of representatives and I think the senate will pass it. I hope I will have the pleasure of meeting the citizens of Etowah before the congressional convention meets and address them. I have done all I could do for land-forfeiture and the Coosa river.

I hope I will have the pleasure of meeting you and thanking you for the great assistance you have rendered me.

Truly and gratefully your friend,

W. H. FORNEY.

FROM SAUGATUCK.

Seven Drummers Try to Rattle the Hotel Clerk, But Didn't.

A thrilling story is afloat concerning a certain hotel clerk in St. Paul, who is himself not at all backward in starting the story on its travels again, whenever it comes in his way, with a good healthy push. There were seven commercial men from eleven wholesale eastern houses, the other evening, each displacing a certain amount of atmosphere in that particular hotel. As they had not yet registered, it occurred to one that the time might be cheerfully occupied in having some fun with the clerk. The diabolical scheme was speedily formulated. One of them approached their intended victim and said:

"My name is B—."

"How do you do, sir?" said the clerk, and out flew the hand ever ready to welcome the coming and speed the parting guest. "You are from—"

"Saugatuck."

"Yes; well, how are times?"

"Booming."

"No 2 then interfered and said quietly:

"I am G—."

"Good-evening, Mr. G—, and you are from—"

"Saugatuck."

"Ah, quite a coincidence; two business men from Saugatuck, Mich., and, of course, you are well acquainted with each other."

"Ahem," said B— gravely, but Mr. G— has the advantage of me."

Of course an introduction followed and at that opportune moment K— came in R. U. E. with:

"My name is K—, and I want a room by myself."

"Mr. K—, glad to see you, indeed. You are from—"

"Saugatuck."

"Michigan?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, this is getting interesting. Of course you know either B— or G—."

"Not that I am aware of," and K— bowed stiffly. Numbers 4, 5, 6 and 7 came rapidly forward in sequence, and proceeded to make the clerk weary, each professing utter ignorance of the other's identity.

"Let me see, you are representing wholesale houses, gentlemen, are you not?"

"Yes," "I am," "I for one," etc., etc., chorused the drummers.

"Well, well, bless me," said the clerk, "by the way, how large a place is Saugatuck?"

"There must be fully 1,500 population there," said K—, gravely.

"Indeed!" exclaimed the clerk, "I knew it must be a mighty big city that could go right on and do business with seven such pillars of society out of it at one time."

A FAR OFF STAR.

It Would Take a Cannon Ball 100,000,000 Years to Hit It.

Chamber's Journal.

It is difficult to conceive that the beautiful dog star is a globe much larger than our sun, yet it is a fact that Sirius is a sun many times more mighty than our sun. This splendid star, which, even in our most powerful telescopes, appears as a mere point of light, is in reality a globe emitting so enormous a quantity of light and heat, that were it to take the place of our sun, every creature on this earth would be consumed by its burning rays.

Sirius shining with far greater lustre than any other star, it was natural that astronomers should have regarded this as being the nearest of all the "fixed" stars; but recent investigation on the distances of the stars has shown that the nearest to us is Alpha Centauri, a star belonging to the Southern latitude; though it is probable that Sirius is about fourth on the list in order of distance. For though there are about fifteen or twenty stars whose distances have been conjectured, the astronomer knows that in reality all of them, save three or four, lie at distances too great to be measured by any instrument we have at present.

Astronomers agreed in fixing the distance of the nearest star at 22,000,000,000 miles, and it is certain that the distance of Sirius is more than three and less than six times that of Alpha Centauri, most likely about five times; so that we are probably not far from the truth if we set the distance of Sirius at about 100,000,000,000 miles. What a vast distance is this that separates us from that bright star! Words and figures themselves fail to convey to our minds any adequate idea of its true character.

To take a common example of illustrating such enormous distances: It is calculated that the ball from an Armstrong 100-pounder quids gun with the speed of about 400 yards per second. Now, if this velocity could be kept up it would require no fewer than 100,000,000 years before the ball could reach Sirius.

WILSONS MIXED UP.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9.—

There are four Wilsons, members of the House of Representatives, and once in awhile the presence of so many persons with a common family name occasions slight mistakes in the record of the proceedings of the House, more especially as the Wilsons do not all owe fealty to the same political party. An instance of this happened yesterday in the vote on the silver bill. Wilson, of Missouri, a Democrat, was recorded in the press account as voting in favor of the passage of the bill, whereas he voted against its passage, while Wilson, of Washington, a Republican, was put down among those opposed to the bill, although he voted in favor of it. The error occurred through the reading clerk inadvertently calling the name of Wilson, of Washington, before that of Wilson, of Missouri, thus reversing the order in which their names are placed on the roll call.

BLAINE TO THE RESCUE.

HE IS AGAINST ANY FEDERAL ELECTION LAW, AND WHY.

Lodge Says That a Law Giving the Government Control of Elections Will Certainly Pass the House—Two of the Three Propositions Already Agreed Upon—Jimmie Blaine Is "Agin" Him, Though.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—"You may put it down that this Congress will pass a national election law," said Henry Cabot Lodge recently. "We did not decide upon the particular measure to be passed at the last caucus because some of us wanted more time to answer some of the points to go into such a measure. We shall, however, decide upon the measure this week and soon thereafter it will be passed by the House."

"There are three main features to be included in the bill. The first and third we have decided upon, but the second is still open. They are:

First—Supervision of registration by United States officers. That is, the Government will take the matter of registration for Presidential and Congressional elections out of the hands in the States where they have State laws now, and will provide laws for the States that have none. It will all be in the hands of Federal officers.

Second—Supervision of elections and probably absolute federal control. This latter is the point we have not yet decided upon, but that will be determined on Tuesday evening.

Third—Certification of elections by United States in lieu of State officers.

These will be the main points of the bill and with such a bill we are going to have fair elections in the South and all over the country, and with fair elections we will continue to hold a majority in Congress."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine opposes the proposed legislation. He does so, it is said, because he says that it was designed for use in the South and he thinks it unwise at this time to inaugurate another crusade against that section. His main object now is to realize, if only in a small way on the pan-American scheme and the South will play a large part in that, if it is over to come to anything. Her ports are nearest to the countries whose trade is solicited, and Mr. Blaine thinks that much may be accomplished if the South remains quiet and prosperity continues. But if, on the other hand, her growth should be checked, by any move calculated to arouse old troubles and contentions now happily composed, the result, in his opinion, would be disastrous.

MARRIED IN A CARRIAGE.

They Were Rushing For a Train And The Knot Was Tied En-Route.

Wilkesbarre, June 9.—A romantic marriage occurred at Scranton. A tall, gay, well-dressed individual of 25 with a floating necktie and waxed mustache came hurriedly into the office of the Clerk of Courts to-day and asked Clark Wagner if the office would be open at 12:30.

He was informed it would, and thereupon gave his name as Clarence King Brown, and said he was from Philadelphia. He said he expected a young lady on the 12:30 from Cortland, N. Y., and wanted everything in readiness for the occasion. He departed, and at the appointed time a carriage came dashing along to the court house, and from it a couple alighted.

They came hurriedly into the clerk's office and asked for a license. The young lady was a beautiful blonde, and seemed rather excited. Brown appeared very nervous. He said: "I have only eight minutes to catch the train. Hurry with the license." In less than two minutes the paper was placed in his hands and he and the woman quickly retreated to the carriage.

A minister occupied a seat in the carriage. Brown gave orders to the driver to "fly" to the depot. The driver did as requested, and while going through streets at break neck speed the couple were married. They got to the depot just in time to catch the train, and received the minister's blessing as they jumped on board.

A DESTRUCTIVE WIND.

That Struck Piedmont Yesterday Evening.

Bank Building Leveled to the Ground and Two Men Badly Injured.

Piedmont, June 9.—The booming young city of Piedmont was visited by a severe storm this afternoon at 4:15 o'clock.

Her magnificent three story bank building was leveled to the ground and two men, one white named Daniel Sullivan, and a negro named Geo. Magby, were thrown to the ground and sustained serious though not fatal injuries.

An eye witness to the scene, who was seen by the Hot Blast correspondent, gives the following account of the destructive wind: "A heavy wind had been blowing for nearly the whole of the afternoon, but at 4:15 a dark cloud was seen to hover over the city, and the wind seemed to concentrate its entire force in the central portion of the town. The buildings on that vicinity were almost invisible in account of the dense cloud and heavy blinding rain which fell in torrents. The wind was from the Southeast and all the windows and doors of the bank building were on that side and none of them closed. A mighty volume of the raging wind poured in at these doors and windows and there being no other escape the walls were forced out and the brick and stone of the handsome structure came tumbling to the ground."

The building belonged to the Bank of Piedmont, and would have been ready for occupancy in a short while. The loss is estimated at from $4,000 to $5,000.

The building will be rebuilt at once.

Sullivan and the negro were putting on a tin roof, and when the wind first began blowing they came down, but when the rain began to fall went on top again to cover an open place which they had left, and before they could again descend the fatal moment came.

The General Confederate Reunion.

We are in receipt of the Souvenir of the great Confederate Reunion, which is to be held in Chattanooga on July 3, 4 and 5, 1893. It is an exquisite bit of art. The cover has on the first page an immense U. S. flag in colors, a splendid portrait of General J. B. Gordon, the General Commanding the United Confederate Veterans, printed on the same. The fourth page has the Confederate flag, in proper colors on its flight to the stars. Beneath it is a colored illustration of the famous scene at the Battle of the Wilderness. This explanation is found under it:

"The artist describes the moment on May 12, 1864, when Johnston's division had been surrounded and captured, and General Lee had ridden to the front to lead the charge that was to save the city of Richmond. Lifting his hat Lee was about to give the command, when General Gordon rushed to his side exclaiming: 'To the rear, General! the safety of the army demands it! These are Virginians, and they never fall Forward!'"

As the command of the gallant Georgian rang out, the line sprang forward to the charge, and two stalwart soldiers seizing the reins of old Traveler, forced the commander they ordered to go to the rear."

There are thirty-six pages of descriptive-matter enclosed by this cover.

On July 3d the United Confederate Veterans will hold their Convention. At night there will be a grand entertainment by the Ladies' Forester Monument Association. It is to raise funds for the erection of a statue of General Forrest, the greatest cavalry officer of the age.

July 4th will be celebrated by a grand display of one division of military and seven divisions of veterans, together with civil societies and trade displays. General B. Kirby Smith will command on that day, assisted by seven Division Commanders.

July 5th will be spent on the field of Chickamauga, with an historical gathering on the summit of Snodgrass hill in the afternoon. The mountain tops and the Tennessee will be ablaze with fireworks on the nights of the 4th and 5th.

The railroads give one fare rates, good until July 15th. Ample arrangements are made in Chattanooga for the accommodation of all. Every Confederate soldier in the United States is not only invited, but urged to participate in this general Reunion.

For particulars as to transportation and arrangements, address at Chattanooga, M. J. G. CONNER, Chairman Com. on Transportation.

SHE DESERVED IT.

A Woman Drinks Poison Intended for Her Husband.

Boston, June 7.—Mrs. Susan Nye, aged 45 who with her husband Michael lived No. 66 Nashua St., this afternoon by mistake drank a glass of lemonade in which she had put strychnine with the intention of giving it to her husband. She fingered till evening when she died.

Michael has been conscious of the attentions paid to him by Nye by an elderly gentleman and frequent quarrels have resulted from his jealousy. Mrs. Nye had threatened to put her husband out of the way and to-day prepared two glasses of lemonade to do so.

One of which she put strychnine. This she offered to her husband but he was suspicious and refused it. Then his wife said she would drink it to prove that it was harmless. During the talk the two glasses had been changed and instead of drinking the harmless liquid she swallowed the poison.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## A Sad Case.

The saddest case of the Enoch Arden kind is that recorded of a Missouri man, which took place lately. One day in the year 1861 his wife sent him out to get an armful of wood, but he walked to town, where he enlisted and went away to the war. When the war closed he drifted away to California and Mexico. His wife waited five or six years; then, concluding that he was dead, she married again. The second husband died in 1870, and in 1882 she led another blushing groom to the altar. About a month ago the original husband came lumbering back. But there was no glad smile for him. The wife looked over shoulder at him from where she sat by the stove and asked him if he had got that wood yet. Then the third husband came in and told him to "make tracks, and make 'em lively."

"Frailty," exclaimed the first husband, "thy name is woman!" Then he went out, and the third husband's dog chased him to the forks of the road.—West Shore.

Cupid's Work.

Piedmont was treated to a very nice little romance last Sunday and the old adage that "Love laughs at locksmiths" was demonstrated to be true.

Mr. Wade Hampton, a conductor on the Louisville & Nashville road and Miss Emma Savage, the charming daughter of Mr. T. P. Savage, were married in the absence of the bride's father who forbade any communication between the two. But they had set their heads on marrying and marry they did notwithstanding the parental protest.

Rev. Mr. Miller returned yesterday from Heflin, where he officiated at the marriage of Mr. Barb Williamson to Miss Emma Black. Mr. Williamson is one of Heflin's most prominent merchants.

I had calls for twelve bottles of Smith's Tonic Syrup one day before noon. There is no chill and fever medicine that gives such good satisfaction.—J. A. Harwood, Cornith, Miss.

A Proof of Merit.

When a remedy proves itself a cure for the very worst phases of blood poison, it stands to reason that minor effects of bad blood will rapidly disappear if the remedy is used in time. No remedy of the world has so good a reputation at home or abroad as a cure for all stages of blood poison as B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm.)

Benj. Morris, Atlanta, Ga. writes: "I suffered years from syphilitic blood poison which refused to be cured by all treatment. Physicians pronounced it a hopeless case. I had no appetite, I had pains in my hips and joints and my kidneys were diseased. My throat was ulcerated and my breast a mass of running sores. In this condition, I commenced a use of B. B. B. It healed every ulcer and cured me completely within two months."

Robt. Ward, Maxey, Ga., writes: "My disease was pronounced a tertiary form of blood poison. My face head and shoulders were a mass of corruption, and finally the disease began eating my skull bones. My bones ached; my kidneys were damaged; I lost flesh and strength, and life became a burden. All said I must surely die, but nevertheless, when I had used ten bottles of B. B. B. I was pronounced sound and well. Hundreds of scars can now be seen on me. I have now been well over twelve months."

A. P. Brunson, Atlanta, Ga. writes: "I had 24 running ulcers on one leg and six on the other, and felt greatly prostrated. I believe I actually swallowed a barrel of medicine, in vain efforts to cure the disease. With little hope I finally acted on the urgent advice of a friend, and got a bottle of B. B. B. I experienced a change, and my despondency was somewhat dispelled. I kept using it until I had taken about sixteen bottles, and all the ulcers, rheumatism, and all other horrors of blood poison have disappeared, and at last I am sound and well again, after an experience of twenty years of torture."

COWARDLY CRIME.

The Assassination of E. G. Maull at Benton.

Benton, June 9.—A sensation was created here Saturday night when the report was heard that Hon. E. G. Maull had been foully and brutally murdered by some unknown person or persons.

The terrible crime was committed about 6 o'clock. Mr. Maull was waylaid, and the assassin's bullets did their work well. He was killed instantly.

There are several rumors here today regarding the assassination, and suspicions are directed toward a negro who lives near here. He is believed to have been hired to perform the cowardly work. About two weeks ago Mr. Maull, who is one of the Democratic nominees for Representative from Lowndes, received a letter from a member of the Republican executive committee, notifying him that the Republicans intended to run a man against him and defeat him; but he, the committee man, thought if Mr. Maull would meet him at Lowndesboro and agree to certain things that this matter could be settled. Mr. Maull paid no attention to the letter. It is not known that this letter or the writer of it had anything to do with the assassination; but it is believed by many that politics is at the bottom of it.

Detectives are now at work endeavoring to ferret out the crime, and it is believed that the guilty person or persons are sure to be discovered. The excitement here over the crime is intense.

Worthy of Trust.

A tourist climbing up a mountain side doesn't want a small, limber or rotten stick. No, he wants a stout staff that will bear his whole weight, one that is worthy of trust and that will uphold him should his feet slip. So an invalid, in search of health. They dislike to fall into the hands of a doctor and be experimented with. They want to use the proper remedy for their ailment in the start. They are only willing to take medicine on condition that it will make them well. Now there's one remedy whose effect is a certainty. It has been tried and tested in thousands of instances and has not once failed. It is called Smith's Tonic Syrup. Its principle was discovered by the eminent Dr. John Bull, of Louisville Ky. It is pleasant to take and possesses all the good medical qualities of quinine, but is free from all its objectionable qualities. It will cure chills and fever when quinine fails. It will also prevent and cure colds, influenza, la-grippe, etc. Its influence is positive, and it is a remedy worthy of trust.

The "original package" saloon of Anniston has closed.

Let us have a united and harmonious community on all questions and we will give the town such a shove this fall as will carry it into the swift current that leads on to fortune.

Mr. McLeod, of Anniston, won golden opinions by his address before the State Normal school Wednesday evening. He discussed the problem of Government and the duty of its educated citizenship at the present hour in a very able manner.

There was a mistrial in the case of Cummings, charged with the murder of Little Ella Gunn, in the Anniston City Court. The jury hung for several days and was finally dismissed on account of the sickness of one of the jurors. It is said eleven were for acquittal and one was for conviction.

So far as can be learned there is general acquiescence throughout the Democratic party of Calhoun in the nomination of Col. Jones, of Montgomery, for Governor. As is natural many would have preferred the nomination of their fellow-countyman, Capt. Crook, and some would have preferred that of Mr. Kolb; but all agree that Col. Jones is a good man who will serve the State faithfully. The Democrats of Calhoun will see that Col. Jones quadruples in Calhoun any man whom the Republicans of the State may put out against him.

Brother Butler, of the Oxford Echo, appears to be aggrieved that Mr. Kolb accepted gracefully the action of the State Democratic Convention which nominated Jones. It appears that the Echo wanted Kolb to get up before the Convention and make an ass of himself. We commend Capt. Kolb for not doing so. If at any time he finds it essentially necessary that somebody must make an ass of himself and he remains disinclined to play that role, he may always safely deputize Brother Butler.

The Board of Directors of the State Normal school met Tuesday and re-elected the entire faculty of the Institution for the next scholastic year. The school has been very successful the past year; more pupils from a distance having attended than at any previous time. Under its present management the school is fast growing in popularity throughout the State; and, as it is a State Institution and not a local school in any sense of the word, the Board felt that justice to the State required that the present faculty should be retained.

On the base of the mountain east of Jacksonville, about one mile from the public square, there is a deposit of honey-comb clay of very peculiar appearance. No one who has examined, among all the experts, has heretofore been able to tell what it was. An expert who examined it Wednesday, however, at once went into ecstasies over it and declared it to be the best thing we have here. It is aluminum ore. It is known that aluminum exists more or less in all clays; but in this particular formation it abounds. It will be utilized. There is a great quantity of it.

Mr. McDaniel, mining expert, continues to make discoveries of manganese. Wednesday he found still another very fine deposit of this valuable ore about one mile south of the first opening which promises to be even better than anything heretofore discovered here. There is no longer any doubt but what manganese exists here in great quantity. This ore is worth from $15 to $20 a ton in Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Philadelphia. It is indispensable in steel making and is also used largely in the arts and in medicine. No process of making steel has yet been invented which does not require manganese, and it must be had at any price. It is a rare metal and the world is being ransacked for it. Here we have it in abundance.

NORMAL SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT, JUNE 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th.

The secret of the Lord is with them that fear Him; and He will show them His covenant.

The above text taken from the 25th Psalm was the subject of the Commencement Sermon preached by Rev. P. A. Fitts, of Anniston. The services, as well as all the other closing exercises, were held in the college chapel. Dr. Fitts in a profound and scholarly discourse, eloquently delivered, showed that the myriads of mysteries which are thought by the scientific to prove the Bible a myth are not more difficult to understand than the many facts which science admits but cannot explain. The origin of life is veiled in mystery—every heart-throb, every bow of promise, every abyss of despair, the bird song, the fragrant flower, the laughing rill and the growing thunder—in the presence of nature's handiwork science stands mute, knowing that the heart of things has not been reached; there is behind it all a mysterious Power their most careful search cannot find.

The secret of the Lord is revealed but to them that fear Him; all vexing mysteries vanish before the trustful child of God.

The truthfulness of His word is power (1) by historical evidence, but most conclusively (2) by the whisperings of man's higher nature—the unimpeachable testimony of the Christian's own experience.

The music for the occasion furnished by a quartette from Anniston was highly enjoyed by our music loving people. Miss Knight, Mrs. McCaully, Mr. Miller and Mr. Iby composed the choir and Mr. Allen was organist.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather an appreciative audience assembled Monday evening to attend the entertainment of Mrs. Woodward, Miss Haley and Miss Anderson. The exercises consisted of a Flag Drill prepared by Miss Haley and a Tamboourine Drill furnished by Miss Anderson with music and recitations by some of the pupils of Mrs. Woodward. The ladies deserve much credit for their success in contending with both measles and bad weather.

Tuesday evening a crowded house appreciatively received the musical concert given by Mrs. Bowling, the efficient teacher of Vocal and Instrumental music, assisted by local talent. Both vocal and instrumental music were well rendered, proving that successful work had been done in the music department.

Wednesday, A. M., the Normal Department in charge of Prof. Earnest presented a program consisting almost entirely, as he said, of home-made work. No effort was made to have a pretentious show but to present exercises naturally growing out of the year's labors—instruction, not amusement being the aim. The Normal class has been much larger this year than ever before. The course of study is well adapted to prepare for the work of the profession, to develop thoughtful, progressive, self-reliant manhood and womanhood.

For Wednesday evening the following is the BENEDICTION.

The work of the graduates showed careful, thoughtful preparation. In presenting the diplomas Prof. Gibson in an appropriately brief address feelingly referred to the earnest, worthy work of the class while connected with the school, yet that he felt sure they would well meet life's duties.

The address of Mr. McLeod was an earnest appeal on the subject of True Patriotism. Our schools should teach the science of government.

The hearts of the young must be fired with love of country. Our purest, best and ablest men must, as was done by grand old heroes in days gone by, consecrate time and self to the high and holy work of redeeming a land from evil bondage. Many political diseases are preying upon the vitals of our nation.

about Grecian Democracies and the Roman Republic, but next to nothing about the republic to which they belong. This does not apply to the Normal School which has a very good course in Civil Government.

Something About Buggy Riding.

Some funny things will occur occasionally in spite of the cares, anxieties, perplexities, sorrows, sickness, pain and death in this wicked world. A young man a few Saturday's ago having a day off from regular business, donned his Sunday clothes, hitched up his spanking sorrel to his spanking new buggy and in the evening hied him to the house of his best girl in Oxanna, and insisted that she take a ride with him. She declined, on the grounds of pressing home duties. He insisted. She pleaded a failure to obtain her mother's consent. He called for a division of the question, whereupon the mother said no; and it was declared, decided in the negative. At this juncture a lady friend of the aforesaid young lady was seen coming up the walk from the front gate. The aforesaid young lady sallied forth to meet her, which she did, and escorted her into the parlor. But the young man; O, where was he! Ask of the boys who were picking strawberries, and they will tell you that he was cutting up antics in the back yard in a bewildered kind of a way, but he finally got his bearings and made for his buggy and drove off. I learned the young man's name, the name of the young lady I don't know, but the first horse I met after they passed was a gray mule.

MORAL.

Don't call to take a young lady riding on a Saturday evening unless you have made the engagement previously. She always wants to fix up her bangs for Sunday, understand!

Speaking of buggy riding, there's a modern John in Anniston. He ought to join Barnum's circus. He can drive two horses in a full gallop. He came tearing through Oxford nearly two weeks ago at a break-neck speed with a young lady in the buggy. As he dashed through every body imagined that he said, "head us," but on closer inspection on his return, the poor horses in a lather of sweat, with nostrils distended, and the aforesaid John urging them to greater speed, we understood he was saying to himself, "Look at us, we're showing off."

The Anniston papers have been as silent as the grave on this whole disgraceful transaction, although it is said one of the horses died the night after the drive and the other in a day or two. Now say, don't some young man from the country conclude that you can show off in the same way and have nothing said about it. You'll be fined by the Recorder, prosecuted for cruelty to animals, and your name will be sound about through the land by those same newspapers that refuse to even mention that such a thing took place.

I reckon it's well that a fellow can't stay young always, for there's such a change of things and names going on all the time that he is almost compelled to die out of the way to keep from going crazy. Well, there's one consolation to me, I've known Jacksonville longer in the flesh than I will ever know Tredegar. Some things, no doubt, I'll hate to die and leave, but the name Tredegar won't be among them.

A Faithful Negro.

Adeline Bleivins wife of Anderson Bleivins, was buried yesterday in the city cemetery. Though they are colored people, they deserve more than a passing notice. Anderson Bleivins served the Confederacy in the twentieth Alabama regiment, although not enlisted saw active service and went into a dozen or more engagements with the regiment, following his employer, Col. Dedman. At one time since the war Anderson has been prosperous, and his wife was his faithful helpmate. They had been married thirty-five years. Since their removal here from Selma they have made many friends as was attested by the large number of his race who attended the funeral, and the flowers sent by their white friends.—Anniston Hot Blast.

A PATHETIC STORY.

Of a Wife's Devotion to a Convict Husband.

Birmingham Age-Herald.

Strong efforts are now being made to secure a pardon for James D. Greene, a convict at Pratt mines.

Ten years ago the convict lived at Tusculum with his wife and daughters. Near them lived the family of Ephraim Thompson. Mrs. Greene and Mrs. Thompson had a dispute and Thompson going to Greene's house while his wife who was in a delicate condition, was alone, frightened the woman by threatening to whip her. When Greene returned to his home he was informed of the occurrence and, meeting Thompson, a quarrel ensued which was ended by Greene shooting Thompson, from the effects of which death ensued about two months later.

Greene was tried, convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for life, and has now served ten years, or with the usual time counted for good behavior, twelve years and nine months.

He has been a model prisoner and the officers have made him a trusty, notwithstanding his sentence for life.

Mrs. Greene, with rare wife devotion, removed from Tusculum to Pratt mines where she has made a living by selling milk. She has prospered sufficiently to buy a little home near the prison. Every day she goes to see her husband and it is pathetic to look upon these meetings—the husband the picture of despair as he realizes that he is a prisoner for life; the wife trying to look cheerful and hopeful. The daughter, now a girl of 16 years, assists in making a living by taking in sewing. They stand well in the community, and the greatest interest is taken in the effort to secure a pardon.

Attorney R. H. Fries has taken charge of the case without compensation, and will use every effort to secure the convicts release.

What Kind of Advertising Pays?

So many houses are now claiming in large type, each to sell goods from 20 to 50 per cent. cheaper than any other house, that we believe sensible people disgusted with these improbable yarns, are paying but little attention to display ads. For that reason we have taken but little space in the papers but have adopted the plan of advertising our own counters by offering every week some new things at less than real value, and by keeping every department fresh all the time with novelties. It seems to work well. Our trade is growing very fast.

This week we shall offer many styles of WASH DRESS GOODS, including Thin Black Goods, White Goods, Printed Mulls, Batiste, Lawns, Challus and Scotch and French Ginghams. They are all marked in plain figures. Drop in and look at them.

It is perfect. These views can be had for 35 to 50 cents according to size.

The confident tone of our community as to the great future in store for the town augurs well. We have never before seen our people more confident, more cheerful or more enterprising. In the fall there will be the most successful sale of property here that has yet occurred anywhere in the South. Fortunate are those who have property to sell.

The Post-master General has declined to change the name of this post office to Tredgar until the Legislature shall have changed the name of the town. The correspondent of the Hot Blast is in error as to there being any great feeling over this matter here. It has been discussed amicably. The people of Jacksonville do not intend to divide on trifles. They are united in purpose to build up the town.

There is a great thing in store for Jacksonville in the near future, but just what it is the REPUBLICAN is not yet permitted to publish.

The parents of several of the pupils of the State Normal School from surrounding counties were in Jacksonville during commencement week and expressed themselves as highly satisfied with the school. As the school grows older, it becomes better advertised abroad. It is the duty of this community to stand by it faithfully and leave its management to the Board of Directors in whose hands the State has placed it. It is a blessing to this whole section of Alabama and particularly to this community in which the State located it.

ELECTROPOISE.

What is the price of success? Morning—Toil. Noon—Toil. Night—Toil. And then mind palsied; effectiveness maimed; vigor prostrate. Is there no rest for the weary? Yes! It may be found in treatment by the Electropoise.

The weary and depressed invalid, after a long struggle for life, or a brief encounter with some acute attack has barely won the strife between life and death. The physician is often unable to restore health and strength. Thus the poor invalid drags from year to year an almost helpless existence, or sinks into gradual decline.

THE GREAT NEED IS A NEW FORCE AT THE CENTER OF LIFE.

Now an agent that can restore vital activity must in the very nature of things give back health and strength to the invalid.

THAT AGENT IS THE ELECTROPOISE.

It acts directly upon the great nerve centres, rendering them efficient, vigorous and active and capable of generating more and more of the vital force until the system is restored to state of physical integrity, and this without drugs or medicine. This discovery has a history as wonderful in its way as the phonograph or telephone.

It will cure, it has cured, insomnia, dyspepsia, rheumatism, constipation, dropsy, Bright's disease, and all throat and lung diseases.

We will send you particulars of wonderful cures, names well-known to you, by mail on application to the Electro Libration Co., P. O. Box 72, Birmingham, Ala.

THE OPINION OF AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN.

After using the Electropoise on the strongest point on myself from one-half to one and a quarter hours a day for a week, I am perfectly astonished at the result upon my general system, as well as local troubles (dyspepsia). I never felt so well in twenty years, and it seems as if a new world had opened upon me; youth has been restored, and naturally I have become an enthusiast about your valuable instrument.

A number of Wall Street patrons, suffering from brain fatigue and general debility, are receiving wonderful results from Electropoise; the same is the case with a party suffering from a secondary eruption on body and face. In fact it has proven a good success in every case. I have used it, there being no question of its great and beneficial future. Refer every one you like to me.

W. N. King, M. D., New York.

WHO IS DR. W. N. KING?

He is a graduate of the University of New York, of the medical school of Paris, and then because he had sense enough to know he did not know it all, he graduated at the Hahnemann school at Philadelphia, and since he has taken up the Electropoise, has gone further and done more than ever before.

TESTIMONIALS.

Birmingham, March 5, 1899.
Dear Sir—Replying to your favor, under card, even date, will say that I am using one of your electropoise now and with a great deal of satisfaction to myself. I find it has greatly benefited me in a general way. I take pleasure in giving my testimonial. Yours Truly,

Gentlemen—I take pleasure in stating that about twelve months ago I used your electropoise for eight weeks, which permanently cured me of muscular rheumatism after the best physicians in the city had treated me for two years without producing any relief whatever. I take pleasure in saying that the Electropoise gave me a permanent relief from neuralgia of the stomach and bowels after all other remedies had failed to arrest the disease.

Rev. Dr. T. J. Beard, Decatur, Ala.

One year's use of the Electropoise in my family—baby and all being benefited by it—has convinced me that it is a wonderful healing instrument.

I saw the Electropoise on yellow fever patients in Jacksonville, but was too much prejudiced to give it any attention. It has since forced itself on me in a most impressive manner.

I do not want to be without an Electropoise under any circumstances.

Dr. J. J. Mason.

I had chronic diarrhea nearly two years. Medicine had no effect on me. A short use of the Electropoise caused a complete restoration to health, with a gain in weight.

Mr. James T. Hayes, of Birmingham, says: "I shall never tire of praising your treatment, and if my feeble efforts and endorsement will help electro-libration, shall do so forever. I am well known throughout the State in railroad circles, and hope to avail myself of it."

Mr. W. H. Flowers, of the well known saw mill company at Rolling, Ala., is ready to back his judgment with his money. He, as well as his daughters, Mrs. C. H. Chandler of Montgomery, and Mrs. A. T. ## A Novel Suit.

JACKSON, Miss., 10.—After being out fifty-six hours, the jury in the cases of the Railroad Commission vs. the Vicksburg & Meridian railroad, brought in a verdict in favor of the defendants. Suit was brought by the Railroad Commission on complaints from Hon. C. Williamson, author of the Railroad Commission law, and A. A. Baldwin, to recover the penalty of $500 from the railroad for failure to post on a bulletin board the time trains would arrive and whether they were on time or not. The jury when it first went out stood eleven for charging the road with $1000 penalty and only one against. This solitary juror, after a fifty-six hour's fight, succeeded in bringing the eleven jurors over to his way of thinking. This is the first suit of the State against any railroad for violating this statute, and but for the fact that there were extenuating circumstances the railroad would have lost the case.

An Important Decision.

Regarding the Liabilities Of Telegraph Companies For Messages.

Savannah, Ga., June 9.—Judge Harden today handed down a decision on the demurrer in the case of W. C. Jones vs. the Western Union Telegraph Company, argued last Thursday. The court sustained the demurrer, deciding that the act of the Legislature giving the right to recover $100 for failure to deliver promptly and accurately a message did not apply when the telegram was sent from one State to a point in another State. Within the State the penalty could be recovered, but between the States congress had authority under the constitutional provision regulating commerce among the States.

A Columbus, Miss., dispatch says: Information was received here today that the most severe hail storm ever known in this section visited the western part of the county yesterday. The hail fell for twenty minutes and done considerable damage to crops, beating oats to the ground and stripping corn and cotton of foliage. In many places these crops will have to be replanted. Cattle were severely punished and many came home cut and bleeding. Some of the stones picked up were as large as hen eggs. The ground was covered with them. No such hail storm has ever visited this section in years.

Mobile Register: John F. Page, the stranger from Waynesboro, Miss. who was held up and robbed while on a recent visit to this city, arrived here again yesterday morning, having ing walked about fifty miles in order to get here to testify before the grand jury. He had no funds and consequently had to foot it. He worked his way from Vicksburg, Miss. to Mobile, having walked from Waynesboro to the former place.

A Good Name is Certainly Better than Riches in the business world. That is why we never permit customers to leave our store dissatisfied with their purchases.

We aim to get the Good Will of the People, and our largely increasing business shows that we have been successful. Our goods, our prices, and our straight American methods of doing business make it an object for you to

TRADE WITH US.

It's a Unique position we occupy as Leaders. This is forcibly indicated by the scores who interview us daily on styles. As we are asked, our judgment must be valued. If we know—as we do—what is most natural we should pattern our stock accordingly? Certainly.

The Dealers who do so much talking about the amount of money they save to the purchasers of clothing are the very ones who are making it more expensive. For instance you cannot get a whole page advertisement for nothing. Neither can any man or concern afford to sell you goods for LESS than COST and succeed.

Those who advertise goods at one half or one third of their value are still making profits big enough to pay for all the charity they do to their customers.

IN HIS SHIRT SLEEVES.

A beautiful woman found dead in the gray morning on the outskirts of the town. Two laborers going to their work in the woods had discovered the body, and in their fright had thrown their axes down and beat a hasty retreat to the village, where, under great excitement, they reported to the authorities.

All Brounfield was excited over the terrible news. Never in the history of the town had such a tragedy occurred. The woman was well known in the community as a young widow whose husband had led a somewhat reckless life, but who had left her well-provided for at his death, which occurred after two years of wedded life.

As was most natural with the added attraction of a snug fortune, this pretty young widow was quite popular, and it was rumored that she had half a dozen suitors.

But this is in the nature of a digression. I have introduced you to the woman—dead, and the principal object of this story is to unravel for the reader the mystery of her death.

The mayor, the five councilmen, the town marshal, and perhaps fifty citizens of Brounfield, after they had heard the story of the two laborers, followed them to the spot where the body lay.

"It was a fitting spot for a murder. The sandy road, arched by meeting trees that shift the sunlight out, led abruptly to a covered bridge which spanned a bleak and sluggish stream; and just fifty yards from the water, in a clump of bushes by the roadside, the body lay."

"Why did the murderer leave it there?" was the question we involuntarily asked ourselves, as the white face and staring eyes met our gaze. Why did he not seek to conceal his crime by throwing the body in the river?

The woman had been strangled; the print of human fingers was visible on her white throat. The fingers of the right hand were closed tightly until the blue nails seemed to pierce the bloodless palms. Evidently she had not died without a struggle.

"Look!" cried one of the men, pointing to the closed hand, and we saw for the first time that it held a little tuft of coarse black hair.

"This may be a clue to the murderer," said the mayor. "Justice Brown, you will hold the inquest. Had we not better remove the body at once to Brounfield?"

The justice assented, and we formed a little funeral procession, and bore the dead woman to the town.

The two laborers who had discovered the body were held as witnesses, but the inquest developed nothing, except that the woman was fond of taking long walks in the afternoon, and that on the evening preceding her death she had been seen leaving her house by a colored woman, who testified that she saw a man, who wore no coat, join her in the little town park and enter into conversation with her. There the witness lost sight of them and thought nothing of the incident. She could not describe the man in his shirt sleeves, for she was not near enough to distinguish his features. She remembered, however, that he was a tall man, and seemed to have a stick or walking cane in his hand.

Who could have committed the crime? Robbery was not the object, for the woman's purse, containing seven dollars was found by her side, or rather a little satchel which she carried suspended from her neck.

My business kept me in Brounfield a week after this event, but when I left they were no nearer to solving the mystery of the murder than they were when the body was found.

I remember how, a month afterwards, as I lay on my bed in a distant town, thinking it over, the testimony of that colored woman at the inquest recurred to me, and set me to thinking.

She had spoken of a man "with his coat off," who had stopped the woman and engaged her in conversation in the park. Had they looked upon this as a clue, and followed it?

Was there a man in that town who habitually went in his shirt sleeves? A man who had been familiar enough with the woman to address her as this man did?

The more I thought of this the more it appealed to me. I could not ridicule it into silence. It seemed to take in my mind the indelible shape of a clue to the murder, until at last I felt confident that could clear up the mystery in which it was shrouded.

I packed my valise and bought a ticket to Brounfield. I had yet some unfinished business there, and so a good excuse for going.

Arrived there, I made enquiries concerning the murder. A reward had been offered for the murderer, but as yet he had not been captured.

My room was in the second story of the little hotel. It was a hot night in July; and although fatigued by my journey, I could not sleep. It was, perhaps, near 12 o'clock, when the stillness of death seemed to reign in the house, that I arose and resolved to seek the balcony for a breath of fresh air.

As I walked out I saw a man, in his shirt sleeves, bareheaded, sitting at the far end, with his feet on the railing.

He gave an involuntary start at my approach.

"Ah!" he said, with something like a sigh, "out for a breath of fresh air, eh? It was so plagued hot in the house. I thought I'd try it out here myself."

I do not know that the man's manner would have impressed me if I had not seen him in his shirt sleeves; but putting this and that together—the way he started at my approach—the nervous, jerky manner of speaking, and then—his being in his shirt sleeves—but pshaw! I wore no coat myself. Who could on such a burning July night?

I do not know whether fate or providence led me to this man, but I do know that a half hour's conversation with him made me suspect that he knew something about the murder of that poor woman whose body I had seen on that memorable morning by the roadside.

I naturally led the conversation to the murder. He did not seem inclined to talk of it, and soon changed the subject.

But I brought him back to it by easy stages, until at last, with a gesture of impatience, he said: "I don't care to talk about it; the authorities are at work on the case, and I guess they'll ferret out the murderer in time."

The best detectives sometimes blunder in their work. I was an amateur in the business; hence my great confidence in my theories. "A tall man," the woman had said. Here was a tall man. A tuft of coarse black hair clutched in the dead woman's palm. My friend in his shirt sleeves had just such hair. These were the mental notes I made while I was talking with him there on the balcony.

"Are you a stranger here?" I asked.

"Not exactly," he replied, "I've been in business here a little more than three months, I'm a surveyor."

We parted for the night, and before I returned I decided to dismiss my foolish impression of the man, and turn my attention to other matters.

But I could not quite rid my mind of the idea that in some way or other he was connected with the murder.

The man started at the name, and a faint pallor overspread his face, which soon changed to an indignant red. He did not wait for the mayor or to finish the sentence, but stamping his foot furiously, exclaimed: "It is a lie—a black lie; and I'll strike the man or woman dead who says it!"

"Don't commit another murder, captain," I said, placing my hand on my pistol. "I accuse you of the crime!"

He sprang forward with a fearful imprecation, but drew back at sight of my pistol, which was leveled at his breast.

By this time the office was crowded with curious citizens, who had overheard the oaths of the caged captain.

He was soon secured and taken to jail. The woman was brought face to face with him, he cowed before her.

The lock of hair found in the dead woman's hand matched his own exactly; and finally, a confession was wrung from him.

He had loved the woman, but she had repulsed him. He soon found that she loved another, and on the evening before the murder he had met her, by accident, and walked with her to the place where her body was subsequently found. In a fit of jealous rage he choked her to death, though he did not mean to kill her.

The sound of a wagon approaching had frightened him so that he fled, leaving the body where it was found next morning.

I believe the captain is serving time in the penitentiary now.

It was the first detective work I had ever done, and I hope it will be the last. I was not working for the reward, but the mayor thought I deserved it, and I was five hundred dollars better off in bank when the case was concluded and I left Brounfield.

The readers of the REPUBLICAN will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## GEN. WM. H. FORNEY.

A Letter Declaring His Views On The Silver, Tariff And Sub-Treasury Bills.

From The Gadsden Leader.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30, 1890.

My Dear Friend: I received, today, your letter of the 27th inst., and return you my grateful thanks for the kind expressions contained therein. I was glad to know that you regarded me as "the friend of the farmer, and laboring people." During my entire congressional life I have never failed to vote for every measure that had for its object the good of the farmers of our country, North and South, East and West, are not in a prosperous condition, and it is the duty of congressmen to do all in their power to relieve the farmers and laboring people of their depressed condition. I agree with you that I do not believe the plans submitted to congress—that is, the sub-treasury plan—will bring the relief that the advocates expect or the people need. And whether constitutionally or not, I fear in the end it would prove injurious to the farming interest. The plan is a new departure, untried, hazardous, and I fear if a large amount of produce was in store at the end of the year and put upon the market by the government, the supply being greater than the demand, would be sold at low figures. The farmer bringing in his new crop, would, if he was a poor man, and had to sell to pay his debts, be forced to take the market price, which would be ruinous to him; all brought about by the government selling more than the country needed. The danger of the sub-treasury plan is: A farmer who is in debt goes and stores his cotton or other produce in the warehouse and gets his 80 per cent, pays his debts. He gets his warehouse receipt, is bound for all expenses, charges, insurance, &c. When the time comes at the end of the year to redeem his product, where is he to get the money to redeem with? He only has 20 per cent interest in the product. If he can't get the money to make the redemption he must take just what the speculator will give for his warehouse receipt. Sell it at a sacrifice in many instances.

What the country needs the Democratic party has been endeavoring for some time to bring about: First, we need more money—a greater volume of currency—enough to meet the demands of trade, commerce and business. We need a reduction in taxation and a more economical administration of the affairs of government. We need a reduction in taxation upon all the necessities of life—such necessities as the laboring man daily uses in his family, upon his farm or in his business.

In regard to more currency, the government has the power to give it by coining more silver dollars. The annual production of the silver mines in the United States has been for several years about $50,000,000. We also get by purchase from Mexico annually about $10,000,000. We do not coin over $30,000,000 a year; during the last ten years it has been between twenty-five and thirty millions per annum. The government allows gold to be coined at our mints free, but the law does not allow free coining of silver. The secretary of the treasury is required to purchase $2,000,000 of silver bullion per month and coin it. He may purchase $4,000,000 per month but does not do so; he refuses to go over $2,000,000 per month. The Democrats favor free coining, or if we can't get that, to require the secretary to coin $4,000,000 a month. If we had free coining of silver there would be over $60,000,000 coined at our mints every year. I favor free coining and have always favored it.

There is another way to get more currency: We have in the treasury $100,000,000 of gold lying idle in our vaults, put there to redeem our treasury notes, called "greenbacks"; but it is rarely any one calls for the gold, as the people seem to prefer the treasury notes.

We also have idle $40,000,000 more deposited in the national banks for safe keeping, &c. We Democrats say take the $140,000,000, pay off our bonds which fall due next year and stop the interest, which is 1 1/2 per cent. We immediately put in circulation at least $125,000,000, and thereby swell the volume of currency $125,000,000 or more. With what is now in circulation, and what ought to be annually coined, we would have enough currency to meet the demands of trade and business, bring relief to all classes, give a new impetus to both farming and manufacturing industries and have prosperous times.

In regard to the reduction of taxes it can be done. For years we have taken from the pockets of the people $75,000,000 more than was needed. Reduce taxation and let the $75,000,000 remain in the pockets of the people, to be used in their business. Reduce taxes. All necessities of life; take off the tax upon such articles as the laboring man daily has to use.

The Democratic party, last year, when we had control of the house of representatives, passed the "Mills bill," which reduced taxation at least $70,000,000 per annum, but the Republican senate refused to pass it. Most all of the $70,000,000 reduction was upon such articles the laboring man daily used. The Republicans to-day have full control of both house and senate. Last week the house passed a tariff bill, but not a farmer's bill. It was a manufacturer's bill. The farmer gets no relief. Upon the clothing of the farmers, their wives and children, the duty is raised; he must pay more. The duty is higher on his household and farming implements, higher on tinware, tin plates, cotton ties, bagging. The reduction made on sugar, which will be lower, if the sugar trust do not prevent it, but a bounty is given to the sugar maker for all the sugar made by the sugar planters in the United States. The bounty is two cents a pound which the people have to pay, and it will amount to between seven and ten millions of dollars per annum.

I have written you a much longer letter than I ought to inflict upon you; but you asked me for my views. I feel confident if the people will stand by the old Democratic flag all will soon be well; peace and prosperity reign throughout our land. Remember me pleasantly to your family and brother. With best wishes I am truly your friend,

W. H. FORNEY.

The Best Recommendation.

The best recommendation a skilled mechanic can give is a specimen of his workmanship and the most satisfactory recommendation for a medicine is its good effect. Now Smith's Tonic Syrup, made by Dr. John Bull of Louisville, Ky., has been used with good effect in many thousands of instances. It needs no recommendation than this. It does every time what is expected of it. If used for chills and fever it cures as certainly and completely as water quenches thirst. In many localities it has almost altogether taken the place of quinine. It has a sure effect on chills and fever than quinine, for it has cured many cases where quinine did no good whatever, and then it never produces the after-effect quinine frequently has on the system, such as nausea in the stomach, headache, dizzy sensations, &c. When a person has once used it in place of quinine they will ever afterwards prefer it.

The "Old War Horse" stands by the colors of true Democracy and the arrows of demagogues and fanatical Republicans as well as those of honest men who are opposed to his reelection, will fall at his feet broken at their points. ## FIFTY MEN PERISH

BY EXPLOSION OF FIRE-DAMP IN A MINE.

The Mistake of a Young Man.

He Carries an Open Lamp While Trying to Rescue Imprisoned Miners, And a Spark Causes An Explosion.

DUNBAR, Pa., June 16.—This morning at 11:10 o'clock an explosion shook the miners' dwelling on Hill Farm, in Fayette county, near this place, and hundreds of affrighted persons, who knew the sound too well, feared another mine disaster, and reasoned far too well. In a moment fearful news had spread that Hill Farm mines, owned by Philadelphia parties, had exploded. The low-browed hill from which the slope entered, shook from mouth to pit, and a score of miners' houses, like the fatal hill, shook for a moment, and then poured out their frenzied inmates by the hundreds. A rush was made to the mouth of the pit, but ingress was impossible, as smoke, in dense volumes, was issuing forth.

Fifty-two miners had gone to work this morning, and were in the slope when the explosion occurred. Of these fifty-two, eighteen were in the left heading, and thirty-four in the right heading.

Those in the left heading, got out all right, the others were cut off and not one escaped. Fire damp, which exploded by an accidental spark from a miner's lamp was the cause of the disaster.

CAUSE OF THE EXPLOSION.

At 7 o'clock this morning the gangs turned in at the mines, the smaller gang drifting off to the left, while the larger, some thirty-five in number, drifted to the right and descended some 800 feet from the surface, and at least a mile from the opening. These two drifts are connected, but the connection is from the main stem, some half a mile from the main entrance. The miners, it seems, had been somewhat troubled with water, and an air shaft had been drilled from the surface to the juncture of the right and left shafts, where the water seemed to be most abundant. As the miners branched off from this point they knew that an air hole had been drilled there that had not yet been broken into the mine, but they did not know that the shaft was to be broken in to-day.

A miner named Kerwin had been left in the right drift, near where that branch joined the miners' exit, and in the course of his labors broke into the perpendicular shaft. The moment this was broken into a flood of water gushed out, and Kerwin and a man named Landy, standing by, yelled out to someone to save the men in the drift, as the water was pouring down the hill in a stream, and he feared they would be drowned. Young David Hayes, who had seen the affair, leaped forward at the call and turned down the left drift into a deluge of water, to warn his endangered comrades below. Just as he passed the air shaft that had been broken into the rush of waters had changed to the ugly roar of the flood which blanched the cheeks of the men who stood behind and towards the light.

THE FIRE DAMP IGNITES.

The flow of water had changed to a deadly volume of fire damp, and as young Hayes swung by the shaft a blazing light flashed through the shaft from end to end. It seemed that the daring youth carried an open-burning miner's lamp in his hat and he had hardly taken a step beyond the roaring shaft when a spark ignited the reservoir of deadly fire, the fire damp, that had already accumulated, and he sank a corpse near the men whom he had hoped to save and whom he certainly doomed. In an instant an unquenchable fire sprang up in a nine-foot vein, just between the main entrance and on the right drift, forever shutting in the thirty-two men imprisoned there.

Poor old David Hayes, father of the mistaken hero, driven mad by the fate of his son, dashed into the sulphurous smoke and strangling fire damp, only to fall blindly by the side of his son, and to be drawn out an hour later with Sharn, both recognized only their wives. The fire fanned by the air from the main drift and from the fatal shaft itself soon sprang into an awful conflagration.

The miners from the left drift escaped blackened and bruised, but safe, and they tell a fearful story of the scene: Just before the blazing coal on the right could be seen a score of terrible faces walked in by flame. No man could pass and live. Willing hands and hearts were not wanting on the outside and Clerk Cook, of the mine, with the mine inspector himself, headed a party of one hundred, who entered the main shaft, and after groping on for a quarter of a mile at least, were driven back again and again by the deadly gas, only to recover breath for a moment and again plunge in. They finally came up on two bodies, and they were brought to the opening of the mine. They proved to be those of Sharn and Hayes, the elder. A volunteer corps worked steadily from noon until late tonight with no result but the two dead above named, and each trip brought deeper despair to those above, and showed there was no hope and no one alive below. The corps of 100 was charged again and again as each exhausted squad staggered to the outer air, but all in vain. One man—Kelly—who had entered several times, finally, from sheer exhaustion, fell into an open pit and was drawn out fatally injured.

At midnight the smoke and gas from the right shaft poured up the main exit in a broken volume, and after trials almost beyond human endurance the rescuing party gave up all hope of recovering their comrades' bodies from that entrance and turned their attention to the Ferguson mine, one and a half miles away. At this hour they are striving to penetrate from that mine, but the flames and smoke balk their every effort.

The universal and unwilling verdict from old miners about the shaft is that the entombed men have either been killed outright by the explosion or later by suffocation. The latter seems to be more probable, at least in part, as sounds were heard from the entombed men as late as 1 o'clock this afternoon. These grew weaker and weaker, however, and half an hour later even the most hopeful of the rescuers could hear nothing but his own heart-throbs. The men say that had they known the shaft was to be broken into, they would never have entered the mine, as either water or gas would surely have followed, since in these regions gas always comes from the upper shale.

The owners, however, and in fact some of the men themselves, say it was an accident, pure and simple, that could neither have been avoided nor atoned for.

The mines are owned by the Dunbar Furnace company, and the owners are all eastern men and employ about 150 men. Charles Parish, of Wilkesbarre, is president, and H. A. Hill, of Dunbar, is superintendent. The latter has been here four months and seemed perfectly conversant with the mines, though the men say fire-damp has been more than plentiful in this region lately. Mr. Keoghley, 615 mine inspector, had made a thorough tour of the mine, but two weeks ago some of the men in a certain portion invariably carried safety lamps, but in other parts, as in the case of young Hayes, lamps were worn uncovered, as no danger was apprehended there. No definite reason or cause can be given for the disaster until the coroner's jury meets here, probably to-morrow. The disaster is the worst ever known in the Connellsville region, the nearest approach being the Leisner mine explosion seven years ago, when twenty-three were killed.

COL. C. C. SHORTER.

Speaker of the House of Representatives Dead.

Eufaula, Ala., June 17.—Col. C. C. Shorter died last night at 6 o'clock, after an illness of a month.

He was Speaker of the Alabama House of Representatives; was a son of the lamented Col. Eli S. Shorter, a nephew of the war governor, John Gill Shorter, and of the present president of the State Railroad Commission, Major Henry R. Shorter. He was yet a young man, scarcely 35, but he had time in these short years to prove himself worthy of the distinguished name he bore. In 1877 he was graduated from the State University with the degree of M. A. In 1878 he completed his law course and settled down in Eufaula to the practice of law. He was successful from the beginning. In 1884 he was elected to the Lower House of the General Assembly; again in 1886, and again in 1888.

In the sessions of 1889-7 he had narrowly missed the speakership, and in 1888-9 he was elected by a general consent, his claim on the score of service and fitness being everywhere recognized as pre-eminent. He discharged the duties admirably, and when the session was over there was general recognition of the fact that he had become a gubernatorial quantity. Among the other honors conferred on him was a position on Governor O'Neal's staff, from which he derived the honorable title of Colonel.

As a friend and companion he was unsurpassed. His character as a man was above reproach. His name is a pride to his native city, an honor to his State, and will be a hallowed recollection to those he leaves upon earth.

Typhoid fever was the direct cause of death. No man was better known or liked than Col. Shorter. He leaves a widowed mother, a brother and sister.

Chills and fever clung to me eleven months. Quinine did me no good. Two bottles of Smith's Tonic Syrup made me sound and well.—Chas. Heyper, No. 12 Ferdinand St. New Orleans, La.

The indications now are that Commissioner Kolb will enter the race for the United States Senate.

The corn and cotton crop in this county looks unusually well. In fact, the outlook for the crop is said to be better than ever known in the county at this season.

Mr. Osborn Parker, of Anniston, has the sympathy of the people of Jacksonville in the loss which he has sustained in the death of his young and accomplished wife.

The Hot Blast Thursday morning stated that the steel plant which is to be erected in Tredegar will require in its construction seven million and a half of brick. It should have been seventeen million.

We publish in this issue a call for a County Sunday School Convention to be organized in Anniston on the 11th day of July next. All the schools in this should send a full complement of delegates.

The State Republican Executive Committee have nominated Hon. B. M. Long, of Walker, for Governor; Richard Wood, of Talladega, for State Treasurer; and Chas. C. Austin, of Decatur, for Secretary of State. All of whom will be overwhelmingly defeated next August.

We presume that the last meeting of the city council in Anniston set the fact that no license will be issued in that city for the sale of whisky until after the meeting of the next session of the Legislature. What laws will be enacted by that session of the Legislature upon the prohibition question in this county remains yet to be determined.

Dr. Lane preached the commencement sermon for the Sylacauga High School on last Sunday. He speaks in the highest terms of Messrs. Anderson and Urry, both of whom are connected with this school and are Calhoun county young men. They have made a fine impression and have had an average of quite two hundred pupils during the year.

We publish in this issue an able letter from Hon. W. H. Forney expressing his views on the tariff, the silver and the sub-treasury bills. In this letter the General states that during his entire Congressional life he has never failed to vote for every measure which had for its object the good of the laboring man; and that he will continue to vote in the same way.

The outlook just now justifies the belief that Jacksonville will have the biggest boom this fall that has yet been had in the State of Alabama. Industries are practically secured already which will bring here not less than fifteen thousand people. For prudential reasons we are not permitted to publish the details of the schemes which are being worked, but expect to be able to give them to the readers of the REPUBLICAN in a few weeks.

Hon. Thos. Hardeman promises to make it rather lively for the Hon. W. J. Northern in the gubernatorial race in Georgia. Col. Hardeman has served his State both in Congress and the Legislature, and will make an efficient executive. Col. Hardeman has been prominent for several years in the State Agricultural Society and is now a member of the Farmers' Alliance, but appeals for support on his record as a Democrat.

The writer has been shown a circular letter from Commissioner R. F. Kolb, which he is sending out to prominent Alliance men, asking for the names and address of candidates for the Senate and Legislature. He also wants to know if they are nominees, independents, or if the race is a scab race, and if the candidates are members of the Farmers' Alliance. Does this mean that the Commissioner is organizing his forces to enter the race for the United States Senate?

Corporations frequently have under consideration projects, which are necessary to be kept from the general public, and correspondents of newspapers who have the interest of their locations at heart should never send out to the press any item of news concerning the plans of land companies, or corporations, without first consulting the managers of the same and ascertaining if they are willing and ready for any special item of news to be given to the public. We have known several instances where companies have been greatly embarrassed by correspondents making public the fact that negotiations were pending for the location of certain manufacturing industries. By doing this, they put rival companies in possession of facts which may defeat the plans of the home company.

The people of Jacksonville have never been as hopeful for the outlook of their town as at present. Plans are now being worked, and every indication points to their successful termination, which will insure to this town a population of not less than fifteen thousand people. The particulars of the location of the industries to which we allude will be given to the readers of the REPUBLICAN at the proper time.

Several of the larger cities in the State are complaining that a large number of their population has been overlooked by the enumerators. There is doubtless room for this complaint, but in many of the cities, where the enumerators have done their full duty, the population claimed will be reduced from 25 to 100 per cent. Many places have fallen into the habit of claiming too much.

That was a short rebuke to Harrison's administration when the South and West came together on common ground and passed a free coinage bill in the Senate by a vote of 43 to 24. Both Southern and Western Senators came out squarely for the free coinage of gold and silver, and although Harrison, Windom, Reed, Sherman, and others of their stripe, made great efforts to whip Western Republicans into line, they were unsuccessful.

In the death of Hon. C. C. Shorter the State of Alabama loses one of her most brilliant young men. He was genial and magnetic in his manners and gathered around him a large number of warm personal friends. He was the present Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Hon. R. C. Jones, of Wilcox county, has been elected President of the State University of Alabama. He is an able man, and will doubtless serve the interests of the University acceptably.

Anniston is again earnestly advocating the building of the Anniston & Montgomery Railroad. This road would be worth much to the Model City, and we hope to see it built.

LETTER FROM TATE SPRING.

TATE SPRING, TENN., June 18, '90. REPUBLICAN—Our party, composed of Messrs. H. F. Vernon, Jno. D. Hammond, J. D. Crow, L. W. Grant and Mrs. I. D. Miller and Miss Fannie Hammond reached this place this morning. We have secured comfortable quarters and are prepared to receive the benefit of the renowned waters of the place. The party composed of Maj. T. W. Francis, Dr. Jno. Rowan, Mrs. Fannie Francis and Miss Emma Francis parted from us at Morristown on our way to Asheville N. C., where our party may join them later on. A large number of visitors are here already and others coming in every day.

TWO LADIES DROWNED.

Sad Accident While Bathing at Chipley, Florida.

Pensacola, Fla., June 19.—Miss Nita McMillan and Miss Nanie Caloway were drowned at Chipley, while bathing in a pond near that town. Miss Grey more Prigione, who was bathing at the same time, came near meeting the same fate of her companions, but was saved through the bravery of a little son of Captain Angus McMillan, father of one of the unfortunate girls.

It appears that neither of the young ladies could swim and Miss McMillan ventured beyond her depth and sank. On rising she seized both of her companions, who were standing near, and dragged them to her, all three of them sinking. The little boy who was present managed to get hold of Miss Prigione as she rose to the surface, and succeeded in saving her life, but the other two had sunk the last time before they could get them. The bodies have not been recovered.

Moody Race War.

Chicago, June 10.—A dispatch from Houston, Texas, says the Houston Light Guards are under arms by order of Gen. King, being in readiness to respond to a call from Sheriff Hammond, of Polk county, in which trouble is expected. The negro at Livingston, who cut the throat of a white man named Morris a few days ago, was lynched by a party of armed men. In revenge a band of negroes killed two of the men alleged to be implicated. A bloody race war is feared.

TRIBUTE TO A GOOD MAN.

The Mobile Register in noticing and endorsing their recent letter of Congressman Forney says: There is no nobler character in Alabama than General William H. Forney, representative in Congress from the seventh district. General Forney has been in Congress for sixteen years and has made no mistakes. On all public questions he has been at all times positive and pronounced. His service to the State as a soldier was pre-eminent glorious, and his civil career has been no less distinguished for sagacity, honesty and courage. Alabama is justly proud of such a son. She has now additional reason to be proud of him. In a recent letter to one of his constituents, asking his views upon certain questions of the house General Forney replies with candor and wisdom. He says truly that during his career in Congress he has never failed to vote for every measure which had for its object the good of the laboring men.

Found in a Vault.

Eufaula, June 17.—Col. H. J. Irby was found about daylight this morning in a vault in the grave yard most dead from the effects of a drug he had taken. He was brought home and still alive though unconscious. It is thought it will not prove fatal. The cause of his conduct is unknown.

Calhoun County Sunday School Convention.

The committee appointed by Judge Lapsley on invitation have sent the following to the Sunday Schools in the county.

The Alabama State Sunday School Convention, which has just closed its session at Birmingham, recommended that an earnest effort be made to organize every county in the State. In compliance therewith a convention of the Sunday School workers of Calhoun county is hereby called to meet in Anniston on the 11th day of July, 1890 and to continue in session two days.

A cordial invitation is extended by the citizens of Anniston, and they expect a large attendance.

Be assured that the benefit to be derived will more than repay for the time.

The purpose of the convention is to discuss the condition of the Sunday Schools in Calhoun county, and to secure greater efficiency and a wider interest in this important branch of our Church work.

In order to make the convention a success, it is necessary to have the hearty co-operation of the pastors and teachers. Each school in the county, and church where there is no school is urged to send as many as three delegates.

The committee will prepare the programme and publish it in advance of the meeting.

Come, fellow teachers, with a playful heart that the Holy Spirit will guide us in all we do. Make a special effort to come. Those who expect to attend will please send their names on or before July 8th, to C. D. Woodruff, in order that arrangements for entertainment may be completed, as far as possible before the convention meets.

ALA. EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

Ninth Annual Session to be Held in the Capital.

The teachers of Alabama are looking forward with interest to their Ninth Annual meeting, which will be held in Montgomery, June 24 to 26. Last year the Association held its meeting in Birmingham, and that assemblage of teachers was said at the time to exceed in number any other ever held in the State. The coming session in the capital city however, promises to surpass in numbers and interest even the great Birmingham meeting.

The president of the association is Prof. O. D. Smith of the A. and M. College, Auburn, secretary, Prof. George W. Macon of Howard College, East Lake, treasurer, Supt. J. B. Graham, Talladega. The executive committee consists of Dr. J. H. Phillips, Birmingham; President C. B. Gibson, Jacksonville. These gentlemen are all well known educators and the elaborate and well arranged program prepared for the Montgomery meeting testifies to the fact that the association is in excellent hands. The subjects on the program are practical and timely and will be discussed by practical teachers.

One of the leading features of the meeting will be the exhibit of school work. This department is under the direction of Mrs. S. F. H. Tarant, of Birmingham. Those intending to send exhibits should communicate with Supt. C. L. Floyd, of Montgomery, chairman of the local committee on exhibits.

Every railroad in the State has agreed to give the teachers reduced rates; full fare will be paid going, and one-third the regular fare returning. Teachers should be careful when they buy their tickets for Montgomery to secure from the agent a certificate to purchase; this certificate, when properly signed by the secretary of the Association in Montgomery, will secure the reduced fare returning. If the teachers are careful in this matter no errors need occur.

The teachers of the State should make a special effort to visit Montgomery, and to be present at these great educational gatherings. Aside from the benefits to be derived from the intellectual feasts provided, the teachers will be amply rewarded for their presence in the social pleasures enjoyed, and the enlarged professional acquaintance which they will secure by their attendance.

What Kind of Advertising Pays?

So many houses are now claiming in large type, each to sell goods from 20 to 50 per cent. cheaper than any other house, that we believe sensible people disgusted with these improbable yarns, are paying but little attention to display ads. For that reason we have taken but little space in the papers but have adopted the plan of advertising our own counters by offering every week some new things at less than real value, and by keeping every department fresh all the time with novelties. It seems to work well. Our trade is growing very fast.

This week we shall offer many styles of WASH DRESS GOODS, including Thin Black Goods, White Goods, Printed Mulls, Batiste, Lawns, Challus and Scotch and French Ginghams. They are all marked in plain figures. Drop in and look at them.

RACE WAR.

PITCHED BATTLE BETWEEN WHITES AND BLACKS.

Only One Fatally Shot—All Caused by an Unusual Amount of Sunday Beer.

Brookside, Ala., June 16.—Last night and this morning a serious race conflict occurred here.

The result was a pitched battle between the whites and blacks this morning in which two men were hurt, one negro fatally.

The trouble came about this way: Considerable beer shipped here last Saturday night. Yesterday afternoon a party of white men were upon the hill drinking beer. They threw a keg down the hill and were throwing rocks at it. One rock struck a party of negroes at the foot of the hill and a dispute arose between the whites and blacks.

One white man remarked that the negroes had better shoot them. The negroes said they would and went home and armed themselves with rifles. In five minutes thirty negroes were armed and patrolling the streets of the town making all sorts of threats. The whites armed themselves, but the trouble was settled last night.

This morning the disturbance was renewed.

Tom Acres a white man, met Jim McDowell, one of the negro leaders of the disturbance, and attempted to arrest him. Acres drew a pistol and would have killed McDowell, but about that time Tom Redmond, another negro leader, appeared with a rifle in hand. McDowell seized Redmond's rifle and fired on Acres. The ball passed through the man's hat inflicting a slight wound in the head.

Acres fled to town and the negroes pursued, shooting at him. In front of Sloss & Co's. store a pitched battle took place, in which over one hundred shots were fired. The whites had armed themselves and the negroes had been reinforced to forty.

At first the whites

GAVE WAY AND FLED to the stores and houses, but finally they repulsed the negroes and drove them away, after wounding Tom Redmond, the leader.

Redmond is shot in the hip and fatally hurt. The negroes have laid him out, and the other ringleaders have fled to the mountains, and are being pursued by bloodhounds and will be arrested.

Strange to say no whites were hurt in the battle as most of them were in houses. The women and children were frightened half to death. The whites are collected around in groups, discussing the situation.

The riot occurred at 9 o'clock. Sheriff Smith was telegraphed to and seventy-four picked men were sent on a special train, reaching here with Superintendent Hill of the Sloss company at noon. A News reporter made the investigation and found the facts as stated above.

Brookside, June 16.—The news now is that the negroes threaten to burn the town and kill the whites tonight. The officers will be held here until the leaders are captured. More trouble expected.

Brookside, Ala., June 16.—Mack Prater and Jim McRae, two of the negro rioters have been caught with the dogs and brought back. Deputy Sheriff Lockhart has just made a speech trying to persuade the white rioters to lay down their arms. Two hundred whites are still heavily armed and pursuit will be continued, and if the negro leaders are caught it is feared that they will be lynched. The excitement is intense, and there may yet be a collision between the rioters and officers, who say they intend to preserve order and defend the lives of their prisoners.

Cancer.

To B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) has been given the credit of curing that terrible symptom of hereditary blood poison called cancer.

Allan Grant, Sparta, Ga. writes: "A painful sore came on my lip which was pronounced epithelial cancer by prominent physicians. I also had much pain and great weakness in the back. Eight bottles of B. B. B. healed the sore, gave me strength and made me well."

G. F. Kellar, Wrightsville, Ga. writes: "B. B. B. is curing an ulcer on my nose, said by all to be a cancer."

J. A. Greer, Athens, Ga., writes: "For ten years I have been a sufferer from a cancer on my face, which discharged offensive matter. Nothing I tried gave relief. Finally I gave B. B. B. a trial. The discharge gradually decreased and the cancer grew less until now there is nothing left but the scar."

A Connecticut man has just been fined $30 for kissing a girl who he had known for only a week. In every other State the time limit for kissing is a variable quantity, depending a great deal on the girl, and we may add, the young man. But Connecticut, with that desire to reduce everything to scientific exactness characteristic of a progressive people, seems inclined to make it exactly two weeks, no less, no more.

SAVED BY A DOG.

Stanley's Dog "Randy" Catches Gator Fowl When the Party is Starving.

We were sitting conversing about our prospects, discussing the probabilities of our couriers reaching some settlement on this day, or the next, and the time that it would take them to return; and they desired to know whether, in my previous African experience, I had encountered anything so grievous as this.

"No, not quite so bad as this," I replied. "We have suffered, but not to such an extremity as this. These nine days on the way into Turu were wretched. On our flight from Bumbire we certainly suffered much hunger, and also while floating down the Congo to trace its course our condition was much to be pitied; we have had a little of something, and at least large hopes, and if they die where we are? The age of miracles is past, it is said, but why should they be? Moses drew water from the rock at Horeb for the thirsty Israelites. Of water we have enough and to spare. Elijah was fed by ravens at the brook Cherith, but there is not a raven in all this forest. Christ was ministered unto by angels. I wonder if any one will minister unto us?"

Just then there was a sound as of a large bird whirring through the air. Little Randy, my fox terrier, lifted up a foot and gazed inquiringly; we turned our heads to see, and that second the bird dropped beneath the jaws of Randy, who snapped at the prize and held it fast in a vise as of iron.

"There, boys," I said, "truly the gods are gracious. The age of miracles is not past," and my comrades were seen gazing in delighted surprise at the bird, which was a fine fat guinea fowl. It was not long before the guinea fowl was divided, and Randy, its captor, had his lawful share; and the little doggie seemed to know that he had grown in esteem with all men, and we enjoyed our prize each with his own feelings.

Small Cotton Seed Oil Mills.

From Southern Cultivator.

Please state in your next issue, if cotton seed oil mills can be operated successfully on a small scale, say, for a plantation producing about 100 tons of seed. What is the general process for extracting the oil, preparing for market, etc. How much oil can be taken from a ton of seed, usual price per gallon? Would be glad to see an article on the subject.

Subscriber, Cany, Texas. Answer.—We are informed by reliable authority (the manager of a 15 ton mill) that a mill of less capacity than five tons of seed per day would not pay expenses. It would have to run through the season of about six or eight months. The cost of engine, gears, linters, presses, etc., as well as buildings and operating expenses, would be much greater in proportion in a small mill, and would consume the profits. It would be like trying to run a cotton factory with half a dozen looms and a corresponding number of spindles.

The process of manufacturing crude oil is very simple. The lint left by the ordinary gin is first removed by a linting machine which is similar in construction to an ordinary gin. The seed are then run through a mill which cuts them to pieces and separates the kernels (meats) from the hulls at the same time. The kernels are then steamed until soft, and then put in hair cloth bags and pressed in a very powerful hydraulic press. The oil is run into a large oil tank, afterwards barrelled or put into railway oil tanks and shipped to New York. The price during the past season has been about 23 cents net to the mill. About 37 gallons of crude oil to each ton of seed is about the average yield. The cake is ground up and sold for cattle food, or for making fertilizer.

Why does not your Alliance put up a mill, sell the oil and make fertilizer for the neighboring farmers? "A Farmer's Co-operative Mill" in Griffin has cleared 16 per cent. on its capital the past season.

Hundreds of such mills will be operated next season in this part of the South. Write to Col. W. E. H. Searcy, Griffin, Ga., for suggestions and details.

Long for Governor.

The State Republican Executive Committee met again to day at 12 o'clock, after having adjourned without doing anything.

A. N. Johnson, of Birmingham, proposed the name of Hon. B. M. Long, of Walker, as a suitable nominee for Governor. Long was nominated by acclamation. Mr. Long refused the nomination in the convention at Montgomery and worked for Smithson, but since Smithson has been shown to be ineligible, he accepted and in a brief speech thanked the committee for the honor.

Richard Wood, of Talladega, was then nominated State Treasurer and Chas. C. Austin, of Decatur, Secretary of State. Each of these accepted in turn.

It was stated by many members of the committee that a complete ticket will be in the field and hustled at the polls.

TEN BABY TOES.

There were ten little fellows who were born on the road of existence to make the road of existence a little less lonely.
To seek for the five and to meet the five toes.
And the five toes were known
as Ten Baby Toes.
Five out in one foot and declared
they were right.
And the five toes were known
as Ten Baby Toes.
And then the five others of brothers were known.
Jumped into another, and said they were left.
With each, Master Big Toe, he marched at one side.
(Two Big Toes were brothers) to strengthen and guide;
And he is the stoutest of all the five toes.
As he ought to be, getting such "stubs" as he goes.
Sometimes Right was foremost, and left behind,
Then Left in the front, with Right
left you would find;
But however these brothers in rivalry vie,
Whenever they rested they stood side by side.
They shared the same burden—the baby above—
And mother declared that they shared the same love.
And all just as precious, since every one knows
That Baby can't spare the least one of his Toes.
Together they'll jog to meet quiet or strife,
From the bright rosy dawn to the evening of life,
When their journey will end; but tonight they must go
To the chamber above from the parlor below.
Up stairs they must go, so the mother avers,
The whole of them clasped in those
"soft hands of hers,"
Where she'll put them to bed, and the curtains she'll close,
For they're all very sleepy, those
Ten Baby Toes.

Dunbar Disaster.

DUNBAR, Pa., June 20.—It is expected by most of the miners who are working for the rescue of their imprisoned comrades that the entry within which they are will be reached by morning. The inspector still holds that some of the men are alive, though no more raisings have been reported. All preparations have been made to take care of the men if they are brought out alive, and three physicians are on the ground ready for service at a moment's notice. The failure to reach the men caused general disappointment and hope is made more giving way to despair.

AN INCOME TAX SCHEME.

Representative Chas. H. Mansur, of Missouri, in his speech on the tariff, delivered in the House of Representatives on May 10th, said:
"And now what are the remedies? In my opinion these are the most desirable acts of legislation the Congress could enact, and the one capable of giving the greatest relief to the millions of agriculturists of the land.
First and foremost a genuine tariff reform, and to have this it is necessary to have an income tax. No genuine relief can be given to the farmer without it. Let him cry aloud for it. Wealth must no longer escape taxation. With pensions soon to be at high water mark, wealth that the soldiers saved and then made colossal must pay its share. Demand an income tax to be applied alone to pensions, and then we can indeed have a genuine tariff reform. Without the income tax all reform of the tariff is largely false and a sham."
What are the figures upon an income tax?

We have none available for the present time and conditions. I can only state that in 1886, the last year of its imposition and collection, the figures are practically as follows: The population was estimated at $25,000,000, with an exemption to every person of $600. There were only 461,170 persons and corporations who had incomes of over $600. Their total incomes amounted to $707,000,000, upon which was collected $72,000,000. In 1886 only one person in seventy-five in this country earned as much or more than $600. Now the population has nearly doubled, its wealth-producing capacity has more than doubled, in fact trebled; so I estimate that if we raise the exemption to $1,200 we could still collect full $200,000,000 from incomes to apply to present and prospective pension charges. Then, indeed, the tariff being chargeable only, as was the original intention, with the expenses of the Government in time of peace, we could have a genuine reform of tariff duties and imports, and the onerous expenses of war times would rest upon and be carried by the wealth of the country, as it ought to be.

Would not such a tax be odious?
Yes, to every man of large wealth, for now he escapes taxation. No, to every man whose income is $1,200 or less; it would be, as soon as he understood it, the dawn of a new financial millennium. When this idea was recently broached upon the floor of Congress, I heard two Congressmen, Republicans, bitterly assert that such a tax was odious, and that the object of all who advocate such doctrine was to make pensions odious also to the people. How can it be odious to the people—let some one answer—when under such an income tax not more than one person in each hundred will be called upon to pay one cent for pensions? How can it be odious to the people when the government of every State in the Union, of every county, of every village, and of every school district is carried on upon the system of taxing wealth, and making the man who has ten or a hundred times more than his neighbor pay a tax proportionate to such wealth? While the political machinery is different, yet the result reached is the same; namely, wealth is taxed; now, it actually escapes.

Next, Federal and State legislation against trusts and combines, and laws in every State that will put an end to options in all food articles. Free coinage of silver and a limited supply of fractional currency. The national banking law so amended as to prohibit the creation of any more new banks, and as their charters expire the gradual extinction of all existing national banks, their circulation to be supplied by new issues of Treasury notes the same as we now have, and commonly known as greenbacks. And last, but not least, amend the patent laws in three particulars, namely: To run out in ten years, no renewals, any one by paying a royalty of 6 per cent.—counting the invention the same as capital or principle invested—to have authority to manufacture.

To these, aided by the economy and general tendency to thrift of the masses of our farmers, they can well look to a restoration of a large part of their former prosperity. May the day soon come. (Applause on the Democratic side.)

Finally, let us consider the principles of taxation and of a tariff from the platform of those underlying principles of justice, eternal as the race, that command the assent, as they always have, of all right minded men everywhere. Disregarding for the passing moment all questions of politics, let us assume the dialogue between the Government and a citizen, to-wit:

DIALOGUE.

"Citizen. Man being social in his nature and habits, congregates together, and, being selfish as well as social in his nature, there must be an arbiter established to accommodate and settle selfish difficulties as they arise, prevent disorder and punish crime. To that end governments are established.

"G. We will admit that to be correct.
"C. A government, to be stable in character and to be respected in its functions, must compensate its servants for their time and services given for the public weal and pay for all material its needs may require.
"G. That is correct, also.
"C. A government, Republican in form, owing its life to the assent of the governed, should be framed so as to give equal rights and privileges to all. Its force and power should not be exercised to oppress any part of its people in the interest of or at the dictation of another part.
"G. Well, I think we may admit that, also.
"C. In a state of nature every man has the right to buy whatever the comfort or necessity of himself or his family may require wherever he can buy it the cheapest.
"G. I think it is true.
"C. If one country can produce wheat very cheap, while wool is very costly and hard to produce, on account of climate, while in another country, because of climate conditions, wool is very cheap and wheat scarce and high and but little produced, is it not desirable for both countries that free trade and exchange should prevail?
"G. I candidly think it is.
"C. Man cannot maintain in its entirety, when he is a member of a government; his natural right to buy whatever he may want wherever he can buy it most cheaply. This principle must be limited, and he must surrender the right of taxation regulated by law to the government for his own support?
"G. That is correct also.
"C. A government of the people, to command full honor and regard, should be no respecter of persons. It should not interfere between two citizens in their private business affairs or give to one by law a direct advantage over the other.
"G. (Hesitatingly). I think that also may be conceded.
"As the Bible teaches that charity begins at home, is it not a proper thing for me, my family, my neighbors, and my State to consider as a question of policy, your authority to levy a tax that abridges my natural right to buy wherever I can buy the cheapest and determine whether or not, in the long run, it is far our best interests to approximate free trade as nearly as may be?
"G. I will concede to that right, also.
"C. Well, Mr. Government, you have been so far very candid in your answers. Now, in the light of the principles admitted by you to be fundamental in their justice and equity why do you pass beyond the limit of taxation, surrendered only for the purposes of Government economically administered, and make your self a busy-body in the affairs of all your citizens, and decree by forms of law that one class of citizens shall have the right to rob the mass of their fellow citizens to build up their own private fortunes?
"Honest Government. Mr. Citizen, I cannot answer your question. I will turn you over for an answer to Mr. Republican Government, who answers as follows:
"Republican Government. We have discovered in these latter days that God was wrong when he established in the breast of all mankind the principles of justice above enumerated. We have discovered that the laws of nature and of climate are wrong, and must be set right; that commerce with the outside world is all wrong, and not to be tolerated. We have also discovered that great fortunes, monopolies, trusts and combines, with the political power they have and possess on the one hand, as well as the threatened poverty, misery and degradation for toiling millions, as the background to set off the splendor of the wealthy classes, are the best conditions for a nation. To bring this desirable condition into full fruition, to correct the evils named, we have discovered the need of a prohibitive and a protective tariff, and so have decreed it as the law of the land."

Another Railroad.

A new railroad will be built from Attalla to Huntsville very soon, being an extension of the Anniston & Cincinnati Road. The route to be used is the old Tennessee & Coosa Road, a portion of which is already constructed. A well-known contractor was in Chattanooga yesterday making up a corps of surveyors to commence the survey of the road next week. The Louisville & Nashville, which recently obtained control of the Anniston & Cincinnati, is back of the enterprise—Chattanooga Times.

BARBARIC TRIFE.

Exciting Chase After a Murderer—Riding a Grizzly.
San Francisco Examiner.

There is yet a large number of old settlers around Bodega Bay who remember Andie Stump's famous ride when he mounted a strange steed and rode down an escaping murderer.

It was in the fall of '82 when the Spanish cattle stealer hid deep in the wild oats that once grew where the more civilized and domesticated Irish tuber now so plentifully sprouts. It was near this saw mill the first foe of the redwoods—that wonderful hide took place.

Among the men employed at the mill was a man named West and another who was called "Jersey" from the fact that he came from New Hampshire. He had made a quite a snug pile of money on the coast, and was only working until the Panama steamer was ready to sail to be steering away toward the isthmus homeward bound. In those days, before savings banks and places of deposit the pioneer capitalist carried his wealth strapped around his body in a broad belt.

One day "Jersey" disappeared, and though it was generally understood that he had gone to San Francisco, a few considered that his departure was rather sudden and mysterious. He was last seen going through the woods with West, and while that worthy told a very plausible tale of his companion's departure for the south, many eyes looked at him with suspicion, and their owners made little quiet searches in the deep woods for some

TRACE OF THE MISSING "JERSEY."
Time passed on, and the incident was forgotten in those stirring early years among the California hills. One day Stump detected West in some tricky act, and a quarrel between the two men ensued. In the year of words Stump, at random and hardly thinking what he was saying, accused West of murdering "Jersey" and hiding the body in the forest, at the same time advancing as though to arrest him.

The random shot struck home. West turned pale, staggered and, believing that his crime was found out at last, turned and fled toward the brush like a deer. It was instantly taken as proof positive of crime—for men were quick to think and act in those days—by all the millmen present, and the whole crowd sprang up in pursuit. Down the slope they all went, over piles of lumber, around huge fallen redwood logs, and through water courses often waist deep in the stream.

West was a fleet runner and so was Stump, and soon the others were left behind, the hunted man leading the way down a deep, wooded ravine in the hopes of finding a hiding place in the dark tangle of vine and undergrowth. Sometimes he was out of sight of his pursuers, but Stump could hear him breaking his way through the thicket and followed surely on his trail, steadily gaining. At last they both came out into an open space with only about fifteen yards between the two men. West saw that he was being overtaken, and as a last resort he sprang to one side over a bank into the creek below. Stump followed suit like a flash, and as he went crashing and floundering through the blackberry vines and redwood saplings down the steep incline, he saw just beneath him a big grizzly and two cubs. West had evidently run over one of the young ones, for it was rolling in the path made by the fleeing man and was howling in fright or pain, while the old bear, with a hoarse snort of anger, was just springing ahead on West's track only a few yards behind him.

This was the little family picture before Stump's startled vision as he came floundering down through the little tree tops that grew on the sides of the stream. He made wild grabs at the bushes, but could no more stop his headlong flight than he could have checked an avalanche in its course.

There are times when a man in desperate straits thinks fast, and Stump did some lightning mental work. He confessed that he is

NATURALLY A DULL-BRAINED MAN

At that time he did some brilliant reasoning and in the shortest space of time. He knew that his chase was up; that the bear would turn upon him as the invader and destroyer of her domestic peace and he would soon be served up as a breakfast for the ferocious mother and her howling cubs. But providence timed matters for his deliverance in a most mysterious manner. He fell squarely upon the bear's back just as she started ahead below him after West. The instinct of self preservation prompted him to grip her long hair and hang on where he fell. Being well off, as sailors say, on his wild steed, he could not see what strange manner of creature her rider was, but in some way she connected the new arrival with West, whom she saw just ahead; so she did not check her speed one instant, but plunged her heavy weight ahead after him. The way was so steep that she could not have checked herself if she had intended such action.

In a few more seconds the somber redwoods saw a strange sight—a human being almost naked, a few shreds of clothing hanging from his scratched and bleeding body, running for life, closely followed by a huge grizzly, along the ridge pole of whose long back lay another man, clinging on with his heels in her flanks and fingers entwined in her bushy coat on each side just back of her shoulders. Stump, hardly knowing what he was doing, held on where he had fallen, and seeing that his bearer was apparently only intent upon getting the other fellow, or, feeling that she already had one and might as well catch the other chap, too, and get two birds with one stone kept steadily on at West's heels.

Stump's 175 pounds of weight was a little heavy for her and this gave West some advantage, so he held his own for a couple of hundred yards with ease. The bruises and briars scraped Stump fore and aft, across his face, and he buried his nose in the old grizzly's shaggy overcoat to preserve his personal beauty.

On looking up he saw West drawing gradually away from them, and the novelty of his position, coupled with his anxiety to catch poor Jersey's slayer, made him desire to hurry his big, lumbering steed forward. He yelled and actually jibbed his heels further into her flanks, trying to spur her on their joint prize. But he saw that she was losing and would give up the chase, to settle the case of the audacious rider perched upon her back. This quickly flashed through the brain of Stump, and he looked around for a good place to alight.

They were galloping along on the banks of the creek close to the edge, and when they reached a place where the stream looked deepest and darkest he let go and threw himself far over, falling about 15 or 20 feet into the water below. Fearing that the grizzly would be down after him he dived and came up on the other side of the stream. But apparently he was not missed, for he heard the sounds of pursuit still continuing down the stream.

A few weeks after they found both the bodies of West and Jersey in the woods. The remains of the former lay about 200 yards from the place where Stump dismounted, and was bitten about the head, showing that he soon fell a prey to the ferocity and energy of grizzly after she had thrown her rider. Jersey's half eaten body was found near the old bear's den with the marks of knife across his throat, showing that he had been murdered and robbed by the treacherous West.

A Safe Guard.

Few people living in a malarial country but occasionally need a vigorous tonic, either to keep off the malarial feeling or else to cure the disease if it once gets into the system. There is no more uncomfortable disease that affects humanity than chills and fever. It drives away energy and ambition. It makes one feel sick and mean all over. A safe guard against the disease and a sure cure is Smith's Tonic Syrup, made by Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky. A single bottle will do for an entire family. It is far better than quinine, as no derangement of the system ever follows its use. The use of quinine causes a buzzing in the ears, dizzy sensations, nausea and sometimes even convulsions and paralysis. Use Smith's Tonic Syrup and all such danger is avoided. In fact it has all the good medicinal qualities of quinine with none of its evil nature.

Louisville &amp; Nashville Directors.

The directors of the Louisville and Nashville railway company will hold their semi-annual meeting during the earlier part of July, and will then take action upon the payment of a dividend. Many of the board will favor the distribution of 2½ per cent, and will suggest that $800,000 scrip, which still remains in the company's treasury, be used for betterments and improvements, which would be in direct line with the resolutions adopted at the meeting of stockholders in Louisville in October, 1888. The statement for the period calling for the dividends will, it is expected, show an enormous increase both in the gross and net returns as compared with a year ago.—Age-Herald.

AN EVENING INVOCATION.

BY JOHN HAYES.

"Mother of God! as evening falls
Upon the silent sea,
And shadows veil the mountain walls
We lift our souls to thee!
From lurking perils of the night,
The desert's hidden harms,
From plagues that waste, from blasts
That smite,
Protect thy men-at-arms!

"Mother of God! thy starry smiles
Still bless us from above!
Keep pure our souls from passion's guile,
Our hearts from earthly love!
Still save each soul from guilt apart
As stainless as each sword,
And guard undimmed in every heart
The image of our Lord.

"In desert's march or battle's flame,
In forest or in field,
Our war-cry is thy holy name,
Thy love our joy and shield,
And if we falter let their power
Thy stern avenger be,
And God forget us in the hour
We cease to think of thee!

"Mother of God! the evening fades
On wave and hill and lea,
And in the twilight's deepening shades
We lift our souls to thee!
In passion's stress—the battle's strife
The desert's lurking harms,
Maid-Mother of the Lord of Life,
Protect thy men-at-arms."

Gifts of Friendship.

From The Galaden Leader.

The gift of the President of the United States—that is what it really was, although it took the indirect shape of a gift to Mrs. Harrison—of a costly 20-room cottage at Cape May attracts a great deal of attention, and is held to indicate that the same practices that were so disgracefully common under the Grant regime have once more obtained a foothold at the capital. When the president sets the example of receiving gifts it will be speedily followed by his subordinates who have patronage to bestow. The Chicago Herald comments:

It is bad enough that John Wanamaker, who raised a gigantic corruption fund in 1888, should have been paid for his services by an appointment to the cabinet, but it is even worse that he should characterize his official career by making such gifts to the wife of the man who placed him, and that his insulting generosity should be accepted without a blush. With this wretched example in high places we may look for a speedy revival of gift giving and gift taking. It is an easy descent from cottages by the sea to bull pups and packages of greenbacks.

The Harrison administration, adds the Herald, "entered office bound and gagged by the corrupt and vicious elements of the party. It has gone speedily from bad to worse. The gift-taking stage has now been reached." The Boston Post says:
The acceptance of gifts from citizens by the person holding the office of President of the United States has always been held indecorous, and it does not relieve the situation, but rather causes greater embarrassment if the gift is made indirectly through the wife of the President. Mrs. Harrison is an estimable woman; but no unknown admirer would send her the deed of a cottage at Cape May by the hands of Mr. John Wanamaker if she were not the President's wife as well as the wife of General Harrison. When the Hon. Hugh J. Grant manifested his affection and admiration for Miss Flossie Croker by the gift of $10,000 in bills, the distrust of his motives became so alarming that Father Croker was called back across the seas to explain how it happened.

The Republican papers were much concerned about Mayor Grant's gift to the Croker girl. The Pittsburg Gazette wants an investigation of this incident. Wherein does it differ—save it is less offensive—from the gift of the 20-room cottage at Cape May to the Harrisons? Grover Cleveland held the correct view as to such matters, and during his term as President refused for himself and wife to accept gifts from anyone of any money value, and in some instances when they were forced on him sent them back to the donors with thanks.

I use Smith's Tonic Syrup in my practice, and am determined to use it so long as it gives such excellent satisfaction in cases of chills and fever.—John P. Mushat, Calhoun, Ala.

At the great land sale at Kimball, Tenn., last week, 331 lots were sold for $434,500, an average of $1,314 per lot.

A TERRIBLE COLLISION.

East Tennessee Passenger Train Telescoped.

CALERA, June 23.—Calera witnessed a terrible collision on the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia road yesterday. The northbound passenger train due here at 9:20 a. m. arrived on time. The engine was cut loose and ran up to the chute to take on a new supply of coal. While standing at the chute a long freight train came around the curve running at the rate of thirty miles an hour, and within a few hundred feet of the passenger engine.

Engineer Griffin, who had charge of the engine reversed his lever and jumped to the ground accompanied by his firemen. He had jumped none too soon for in an instant the freight train had struck his engine and sent it flying down the track towards the depot where the passenger train stood. Engineer Welsh of the freight train jumped from his engine before it struck the passenger engine and in doing so broke his arm. Both engines and one or two cars were demolished. When baggage man Edward Cooper saw the freight train approaching at such a rapid rate he surmised the trouble and ran through the coaches warning the passengers of the impending danger. All made for the doors and in the rush the little child of Berry Keph was trampled on and badly hurt. Mrs. Abner Pitner, wife of the conductor of the passenger train, was thrown against the water cooler and sustained serious injuries.

Ella West, colored, nurse of G. M. Reynolds was killed, and Mr. Reynolds's child received severe injuries. All the passengers succeeded in getting out of the coaches before the crash came.

The collision was caused by the freight running on the passenger train's time. The freight crew wanted to make the Calera switch before side-tracking for the passenger.

Hot Springs.

Have you ever visited Hot Springs? Alas! You meet while there so many instances of terrible blood poison, evidenced by disfigurement of face and form. Hither, rush sufferers from scrofula, syphilis, eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, blenched skin, twisted and aching joints, limbs made crooked by rheumatism, etc. Some find relief, some do not and come away poor in purse and grievously disappointed. It costs money to visit and sojourn at Hot Springs. The experiment of going there cannot be indulged in without considerable expense. How thankful then should everyone be to know there is a remedy even more beneficial in cases of blood poison than Hot Springs. We refer to Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) as to its merits thousand will testify.

Z. T. Hallerton, Macon, Ga. writes: "I contracted blood poison. I first tried physicians, and then went to Hot Springs. I returned home a ruined man physically. Nothing seemed to do me any good. My mother persuaded me to try B. B. B. To my utter astonishment every ulcer quickly healed."

Jas. L. Bosworth, Atlanta, Ga. says: "Some years ago I contracted blood poison. I had no appetite, my digestion was ruined, rheumatism drew up my limbs, so I could hardly walk, my throat was cauterized five times. Hot Springs gave me no benefit and my life was one of torture until I gave B. B. B. a trial, and surprising as it may seem, the use of five bottles cured me."

Need of Good County Roads.

The following timely remarks of the Wartrace Advance calls the attention of the farmers of Tennessee to the meeting of the Road Convention for Nashville, which is appointed for August next. It is a very important convention, and should be productive of good results.

"One of the heaviest taxes levied on the farmer of the country is imposed by poor roads. They double the cost of hauling stuff to and from market, because they double the number of loads; they take the life and energy out of the team by making it hard traveling, hard pulling and an everlasting jolting and jerking, well calculated to make a horse balk; they break the harness, cause extra wear of it and keep it soiled with sweat and mud; they strain, rack and break the wagon, necessitating the use of a heavier one than would be needed on a good road, and largely reduce the period of its usefulness; they cause a loss of time by slow driving and frequent breakdowns, and tax the patience as well as the purse. In fact, they are a costly nuisance which would not be endured if farmers realized the extent to which they are taxed by their use—an injury to everybody and a benefit to nobody."

Cruel, fashionable mother! Why don't you look after the welfare of your sickly child? The nurse hasn't sense enough to get it a box of Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyer.

RACE WAR.

PITCHED BATTLE BETWEEN WHITES AND BLACKS.

Only One Fatally Shot—All Caused by an Unusual Amount of Sunday Beer.

Brookside, Ala., June 16.—Last night and this morning a serious race conflict occurred here.

The result was a pitched battle between the whites and blacks this morning in which two men were hurt, one negro fatally.

The trouble came about this way: Considerable beer shipped here last Saturday night. Yesterday afternoon a party of white men were upon the hill drinking beer. They threw a keg down the hill and were throwing rocks at it. One rock struck a party of negroes at the foot of the hill and a dispute arose between the whites and blacks.

One white man remarked that the negroes had better shoot them. The negroes said they would and went home and armed themselves with rifles. In five minutes thirty negroes were armed and patrolling the streets of the town making all sorts of threats. The whites armed themselves, but the trouble was settled last night.

This morning the disturbance was renewed.

Tom Acres a white man, met Jim McDowell, one of the negro leaders of the disturbance, and attempted to arrest him. Acres drew a pistol and would have killed McDowell, but about that time Tom Redmond, another negro leader, appeared with a rifle in hand. McDowell seized Redmond's rifle and fired on Acres. The ball passed through the man's hat inflicting a slight wound in the head.

Acres fled to town and the negroes pursued, shooting at him. In front of Sloss & Co's store a pitched battle took place, in which over one hundred shots were fired. The whites had armed themselves and the negroes had been reinforced to forty.

At first the whites

GAVE WAY AND FLED to the stores and houses, but finally they repulsed the negroes and drove them away, after wounding Tom Redmond, the leader.

Redmond is shot in the hip and fatally hurt. The negroes have laid him out, and the other ringleaders have fled to the mountains, and are being pursued by bloodhounds and will be arrested.

Strange to say no whites were hurt in the battle as most of them were in houses. The women and children were frightened half to death. The whites are collected around in groups, discussing the situation.

The riot occurred at 9 o'clock. Sheriff Smith was telegraphed to and seventy-four picked men were sent on a special train, reaching here with Superintendent Hill of the Sloss company at noon. A news reporter made the investigation and found the facts as stated above.

Brookside, June 16.—The news now is that the negroes threaten to burn the town and kill the whites tonight. The officers will be held here until the leaders are captured. More trouble expected.

Brookside, Ala., June 16.—Mack Prater and Jim McRae, two of the negro rioters have been caught with the dogs and brought back. Deputy Sheriff Lockhart has just made a speech trying to persuade the white rioters to lay down their arms. Two hundred whites are still heavily armed and pursuit will be continued, and if the negro leaders are caught it is feared that they will be lynched. The excitement is intense, and there may yet be a collision between the rioters and officers, who say they intend to preserve order and defend the lives of their prisoners.

Cancer.

To B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) has been given the credit of curing that terrible symptom of hereditary blood poison called cancer.

Allan Grant, Sparta, Ga., writes: "A painful sore came on my lip which was pronounced epithelial cancer by prominent physicians. I also had much pain and great weakness in the back. Eight bottles of B. B. B. healed the sore, gave me strength and made me well."

G. F. Keller, Wrightsville, Ga., writes: "B. B. B. is curing an ulcer on my nose, said by all to be a cancer."

J. A. Greer, Athens, Ga., writes: "For ten years I have been a sufferer from a cancer on my face, which discharged offensive matter. Nothing I tried gave relief. Finally I gave B. B. B. a trial. The discharge gradually decreased and the cancer grew less until now there is nothing left but the scar."

A Connecticut man has just been fined $30 for kissing a girl who he had known for only a week. In every other State the time limit for kissing is a variable quantity, depending a great deal on the girl, and we may add, the young man. But Connecticut, with that desire to reduce everything to scientific exactness characteristic of a progressive people, seems inclined to make it exactly two weeks, no less, no more.—Exchange.

SAVED BY A DOG.

Stanley's Dog "Randy" Catches a Guinea Fowl When the Party Is Starving.

We were sitting conversing about our prospects, discussing the probabilities of our couriers reaching some settlement on this day, or the next, and the time that it would take them to return; and they desired to know whether, in my previous African experience, I had encountered anything so grievous as this.

"No, not quite so bad as this," I replied. "We have suffered, but not to such an extent as this. Those nine days on the way into Turin were wretched. On our flight from Bumbire we certainly suffered much hunger, and also while floating down the Congo to trace its course our condition was much to be pitied; we have had a little of something, and at least large hopes, and if they die where are we? The age of miracles is past, it is said, but why should they be? Moses drew water from the rock at Horeb for the thirsty Israelites. Of water we have enough and to spare. Elijah was fed by ravens at the brook Cherith, but there is not a raven in all this forest. Christ was ministered unto by angels. I wonder if any one will minister unto us?"

Just then there was a sound as of a large bird whirling through the air. Little Randy, my fox terrier, lifted up a foot and gazed inquiringly; we turned our heads to see, and that second the bird dropped beneath the jaws of Randy, who snapped at the prize and held it fast in a vise as of iron.

"There, boys," I said, "truly the gods are gracious. The age of miracles is not past," and my comrades were seen gazing in delighted surprise at the bird, which was a fine fat guinea fowl. It was not long before the guinea fowl was divided, and Randy, its captor, had his lawful share; and the little doggie seemed to know that he had grown in esteem with all men, and we enjoyed our prize each with his own feelings.—Henry M. Stanley in Scribner's.

Small Cotton Seed Oil Mills.

From Southern Cultivator.

Please state in your next issue, if cotton seed oil mills can be operated successfully on a small scale, say, for a plantation producing about 100 tons of seed. What is the general process for extracting the oil, preparing for market, etc. How much oil can be taken from a ton of seed, usual price per gallon? Would be glad to see an article on the subject.—Subscriber, Cany, Texas.

Answer.—We are informed by reliable authority (the manager of a 15 ton mill) that a mill of less capacity than five tons of seed per day would not pay expenses. It would have to run through the season of about six or eight months. The cost of engine, linters, presses, etc., as well as buildings and operating expenses, would be much greater in proportion in a small mill, and would consume the profits. It would be like trying to run a cotton factory with half a dozen looms and a corresponding number of spindles.

The process of manufacturing crude oil is very simple. The lint left by the ordinary gin is first removed by a linting machine which is similar in construction to an ordinary gin. The seed are then run through a mill which cuts them to pieces and separates the kernels (meats) from the hulls at the same time. The kernels are then steamed until soft, and then put in hair cloth bags and pressed in a very powerful hydraulic press. The oil is run into a large oil tank, afterwards barreled or put into railway oil tanks and shipped to New York. The price during the past season has been about 23 cents net to the mill. About 37 gallons of crude oil to each ton of seed is about the average yield. The cake is ground up and sold for cattle feed, or for making fertilizer.

Why does not your Alliance put up a mill, sell the oil and make fertilizers for the neighboring farmers? "A Farmer's Co-operative Mill" in Griffin has cleared 16 per cent. on its capital the past season.

Hundreds of such mills will be operated next season in this part of the South. Write to Col. W. E. H. Searcy, Griffin, Ga., for suggestions and details.

Long for Governor.

The State Republican Executive Committee met again to day at 12 o'clock, after having adjourned without doing anything.

A. N. Johnson, of Birmingham proposed the name of Hon. B. M. Long, of Walker, as a suitable nominee for Governor. Long was nominated by acclamation. Mr. Long refused the nomination in the convention at Montgomery and worked for Smithson, but since Smithson has been shown to be ineligible, he accepted and in a brief speech thanked the committee for the honor.

Richard Wood, of Talladega, was then nominated State Treasurer and Chas. C. Austin, of Decatur, Secretary of State. Each of these accepted in turn.

It was stated by many members of the committee that a complete ticket will be in the field and hustle at the polls.

BABY TOES.

There were ten little fellows who started one day to make their way to the land of existence. To seek for the joys and to meet with the trials of life.

And the names they were known by were Ten Baby Toes.

Five got in one sock and declared themselves as happy.

Another pair found a willing, snug, pleasant and light.

Another pair's others, of brothers, jumped into another, and said they were left.

With each, Master Big Toe, he marched at one side.

(Two Big Toes were brothers) to strengthen and guide;

And he is the stoutest of all the five toes.

As he ought to be, getting such "stubs" as he goes.

But however these brothers in rivalry vied.

Whenever they rested they stood side by side.

They shared the same burden—the baby above—

And mother declared that they shared the same love.

And all just as precious, since every one knows

That Baby can't spare the least one of his Toes.

Together they'll jog to meet quiet or strife.

From the bright rosy dawn to the evening of life.

When their journey will end; but to-night they must go

To the chamber above from the parlor below.

Up stairs they must go, so the mother avers,

The whole of them clasped in those soft hands of hers.

Where she'll put them to bed, and the curtains she'll close,

For they're all very sleepy, those Ten Baby Toes.

The readers of the REPUBLICAN will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Dunbar Disaster.

DUNBAR, Pa., June 20.—It is expected by most of the miners who are working for the rescue of their imprisoned comrades that the entry within which they are will be reached by morning. The inspector still holds that some of the men are alive, though no more rapings have been reported. All preparations have been made to take care of the men if they are brought out alive, and three physicians are on the ground ready for service at a moment's notice. The failure to reach the men caused general disappointment and hope is now giving way to despair.

AN INCOME TAX DEMANDED.

Representative Mansur, on a pending bill for tariff reform.

How the Farmers May Be Benefited.

Hon. Charles H. Mansur, of Missouri, in his speech on the tariff, delivered in the House of Representatives on May 10th, said:

And now what are the remedies? In my opinion these are the most desirable acts of legislation the Congress could enact, and the one capable of giving the greatest relief to the tolling millions of agriculturists of the land.

First and foremost a genuine tariff reform, and to have this it is necessary to have an income tax. No genuine relief can be given to the farmer without it. Let him cry aloud for it. Wealth must no longer escape taxation. With pensions soon to be at high water mark, wealth that the soldiers saved and then made colossal must pay its share. Demand an income tax to be applied alone to pensions, and then we can indeed have a genuine tariff reform. Without the income tax all reform of the tariff is largely false and a sham.

What are the figures upon an income tax?

We have none available for the present time and conditions. I can only state that in 1886, the last year of its imposition and collection, the figures are practically as follows: The population was estimated at $35,000,000, with an exemption to every person of $500. There were only 361,170 persons and corporations who had incomes of over $500. Their total incomes amounted to $707,000,000, upon which was collected $72,000,000. In 1886 only one person in seventy-five in this country earned as much or more than $500. Now the population has nearly doubled, its wealth-producing capacity has more than doubled, in fact trebled; so I estimate that if we raise the exemption to $1,200 we could still collect full $200,000,000 from incomes to apply to present and prospective pension charges. Then, indeed, the tariff being chargeable only, as was the original intention, with the expenses of the Government in time of peace, we could have a genuine reform of tariff duties and imports, and the onerous expenses of war times would rest upon and be carried by the wealth of the country, as it ought to be.

Would not such a tax be odious? Yes, to every man of large wealth, for now he escapes taxation. No, to every man whose income is $1,200 or less; it would be, as soon as he understood it, the dawn of a new financial millennium. When this idea was recently broached upon the floor of Congress, I heard two Congressmen, Republicans, bitterly assert that such a tax was odious, and that the object of all who advocate such doctrine was to make pensions odious also to the people. How can it be odious to the people—let some one answer—when under such an income tax not more than one person in each hundred will be called upon to pay one cent for pensions? How can it be odious to the people when the government of every State in the Union, of every county, of every city, village and hamlet, and of every school district is carried on under the system of taxing wealth, and making the man who has ten or a hundred times more than his neighbor pay a tax proportionate to such wealth? While the political machinery is different, yet the result reached is the same; namely, wealth is taxed; now, it actually escapes.

Next, Federal and State legislation against trusts and combines, and laws in every State that will put an end to options in all food articles. Free coinage of silver and a limited supply of fractional currency. The national banking law so amended as to prohibit the creation of any more new banks, and as their charters expire the gradual extinction of all existing national banks, their circulation to be supplied by new issues of Treasury notes the same as we now have, and commonly known as greenbacks. And last, but not least, amend the patent laws in three particulars, namely: To run out in ten years, no renewals, any one by paying a royalty of 5 per cent—counting the invention the same as capital or principle invested—to have authority to manufacture.

To these, aided by the economy and general tendency to thrift of the masses of our farmers, they can well look to a restoration of a large part of their former prosperity. May the day soon come. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Finally, let us consider the principles of taxation and of a tariff from the platform of those underlying principles of justice, eternal as the race, that command the assent, as they always have, of all right minded men everywhere. Discarding for the passing moment all questions of politics, let us assume the dialogue form, and have a short discussion between the Government and a citizen, to-wit:

DIALOGUE.

"Citizen. Man being social in his nature and habits, congregates together, in tribes, races, or peoples, and countries, being selfish as well as social in his nature, there must be an arbiter established to accommodate and settle selfish difficulties as they arise, prevent disorder and punish crime. To that end governments are established.

"G. We will admit that to be correct.

"C. A government, to be stable in character and to be respected in its functions, must compensate its servants for their time and services given for the public weal and pay for all material its needs may require.

"G. That is correct, also.

"C. A government, Republican in form, owing its life to the assent of the governed, should be framed so as to give equal rights and privileges to all. Its force and power should not be exercised to oppress any part of its people in the interest of or at the dictation of another part.

"G. Well, I think we may admit that, also.

"C. In a state of nature every man has the right to buy whatever the comfort or necessity of himself or his family may require wherever he can buy it the cheapest.

"G. I think it is true.

"C. If one country can produce wheat very cheap, while wool is very costly and hard to produce, on account of climate, while in another country, because of climate conditions, wool is very cheap and wheat scarce and high and but little produced, is it not desirable for both countries that free trade and exchange should prevail?

"G. I candidly think it is.

"C. Man cannot maintain in its entirety, when he is a member of a government, his natural right to buy whatever he may want wherever he can buy it most cheaply. This principle must be limited, and he must surrender the right of taxation regulated by law to the government for his own support?

"G. That is correct also.

"C. A government of the people, to command full honor and regard, should be no respecter of persons. It should not interfere between two citizens in their private business affairs or give to one by law a direct advantage over the other.

"G. (Hesitatingly). I think that also may be conceded.

"As the Bible teaches that charity begins at home, is it not a proper thing for me, my family, my neighbors, and my State to consider as a question of policy, your authority to levy a tax that abridges my natural right to buy wherever I can buy the cheapest and determine whether or not, in the long run, it is far our best interests to approximate free trade as nearly as may be?

"G. I will concede to that right, also.

"C. Well, Mr. Government, you have been so far very candid in your answers. Now, in the light of the principles admitted by you to be fundamental in their justice and equity why do you pass beyond the limit of taxation, surrendered only for the purposes of Government economically administered, and make yourself a busy-body in the affairs of all your citizens, and decree by forms of law that one class of citizens shall have the right to rob the mass of their fellow citizens to build up their own private fortunes?

"Honest Government. Mr. Citizen, I cannot answer your question. I will turn you over for an answer to Mr. Republican Government, who answers as follows:

"Republican Government. We have discovered in these latter days that God was wrong when he established in the breast of all mankind the principles of justice above enumerated. We have discovered that the laws of nature and of climate are wrong, and must be set right; that commerce with the outside world is all wrong, and not to be tolerated. We have also discovered that great fortunes, monopolies, trusts and combines, with the political power they have and possess on the one hand, as well as the threatened poverty, misery and degradation for tolling millions, as the background to set off the splendor of the wealthy classes, are the best conditions for a nation. To bring this desirable condition into full fruition, to correct the evils named, we have discovered the need of a prohibitive and a protective tariff, and so have decreed it as the law of the land."

Another Railroad.

A new railroad will be built from Attalla to Huntsville very soon, being an extension of the Anniston & Cincinnati Road. The route to be used is the old Tennessee & Coosa Road, a portion of which is already constructed. A well-known contractor was in Chattanooga yesterday making up a corps of surveyors to commence the survey of the road next week. The Louisville & Nashville, which recently obtained control of the Anniston & Cincinnati, is back of the enterprise.—Chattanooga Times.

BARRACK-RIDE.

Exciting Chase After a Murderer—Riding a Hilly.

San Francisco Examiner.

There is yet a large number of old settlers around Bodega bay, who remember Andie Stump's famous ride when he mounted a strange steed and rode down an escaping murderer.

It was in the fall of '52 when the Spanish cattle stood big deep in the wild oats that once grew where the more civilized and domesticated Irish tuber row so plentifully sprouts.

Up in the foothills of the coast range a few miles from the town of Bodega, a couple of eastern sawyers had erected a mill, and the board houses began to frown down upon their rude neighbors, the log huts. It was near this saw mill—the first foe of the redwoods—that the wonderful ride took place.

Among the men employed at the mill was a man named West and another who was called "Jersey" from the fact that he came from New Hampshire. He had made quite a snug pile of money on the coast, and was only working until the Panama steamer was ready to sail to be steering away toward the isthmus homeward bound. In those days, before savings banks and places of deposit the pioneer capitalist carried his wealth strapped around his body in a broad belt.

One day "Jersey" disappeared, and though it was generally understood that he had gone to San Francisco, a few considered that his departure was rather sudden and mysterious—too sudden and mysterious, in fact, for the health of the missing man. He was last seen going through the woods with West, and while that worthy told a very plausible tale of his companion's departure for the south, many eyes looked at him with suspicion, and their owners made little quiet searches in the deep woods for some

Time passed on, and the incident was forgotten in those stirring early years among the California hills. One day Stump detected West in some tricky act, and a quarrel between the two men ensued. In the year of words Stump, at random and hardly thinking what he was saying, accused West of murdering "Jersey" and hiding the body in the forest, at the same time advancing as though to arrest him.

The random shot struck home. West turned pale, staggered and, believing that his crime was found out at last, turned and fled toward the brush like a deer. It was instantly taken as proof positive of crime—few men were quick to think and act in those days—by all the millmen present, and the whole crowd sprang up in pursuit. Down the slope they all went, over piles of lumber, around huge fallen redwood logs, and through water courses often waist deep in the stream.

West was a fleet runner and so was Stump, and soon the others were left behind, the hunted man leading the way down a deep, wooded ravine in the hopes of finding a hiding place in the dark tangle of vine and undergrowth. Sometimes he was out of sight of his pursuers, but Stump could hear him breaking his way through the thicket and followed surely on his trail, steadily gaining. At last they both came out into an open space with only about fifteen yards between the two men. West saw that he was being overtaken, and as a last resort he sprang to one side over a bank into the creek below. Stump followed suit like a flash, and as he went crashing and floundering through the blackberry vines and redwood saplings down the steep incline, he saw just beneath him a big grizzly and two cubs. West had evidently run over one of the young ones, for it was rolling in the path made by the fleeing man and was howling in fright or pain, while the old bear, with a hoarse snort of anger, was just springing ahead on West's track only a few yards behind him.

This was the little family picture before Stump's startled vision as he came floundering down through the little tree tops that grew on the sides of the stream. He made wild grabs at the bushes, but could no more stop his headlong flight than he could have checked an avalanche in its course.

There are times when a man in desperate straits thinks fast, and Stump did some lightning mental work. He confessed that he is

NATURALLY A DULL-BRAINED MAN. At that time he did some brilliant reasoning and in the shortest space of time. He knew that his chase was up; that the bear would turn upon him as the Invader and destroyer of her domestic peace and he would soon be served up as a breakfast for the ferocious mother and her howling cubs. But providence timed matters for his deliverance in a most mysterious manner. He fell squarely upon the bear's back just as she started ahead below him after West. The instinct of self preservation prompted him to grip her long hair and hang on while he fell. Being well, as sailors say, on his wild steed, he could not see what strange manner of creature her rider was, but in some way she connected the new arrival with West, whom she saw just ahead; so she did not check her speed one instant, but plunged her heavy weight ahead after him. The way was so steep that she could not have checked herself if she had intended such action.

In a few more seconds the somber redwoods saw a strange sight—a human being almost naked, a few shreds of clothing hanging from his scratched and bleeding body, clinging for life, closely followed by a huge grizzly, along the ridge pole of whose long back lay another man, clinging on with his heels in her flanks and fingers entwined in her bushy coat on each side just back of her shoulders. Stump, hardly knowing what he was doing, held on where he had fallen, and seeing that his hearer was apparently only intent upon getting the other fellow, or feeling that she already had one and might as well catch the other chap, too, and get two birds with one stone kept steadily on at West's heels.

Stump's 175 pounds of weight was a little heavy for her and this gave West some advantage, so he held his own for a couple of hundred yards with ease. The bruised and across-scraped Stump fore and aft, across his face, and he buried his nose in the old grizzly's shaggy overcoat to preserve his personal beauty.

On looking up he saw West drawing gradually away from them, and the novelty of his position, coupled with his anxiety to catch poor Jersey's slayer, made him desire to hurry his big, lumbering steed forward. He yelled and actually jobbed his heels further into her flanks, trying to spur her on their joint prize. But he saw that she was losing and would give up the chase, to settle the case of the audacious rider perched upon her back. This quickly flashed through the brain of Stump, and he looked around for a good place to alight.

They were galloping along on the banks of the creek close to the edge, and when they reached a place where the stream looked deepest and darkest he let go and threw himself far over, falling about 18 or 20 feet into the water below. Fearing that the grizzly would be down after him he dived and came up on the other side of the stream. But apparently he was not missed, for he heard the sounds of pursuit still continuing down the stream.

A few weeks after they found both the bodies of West and Jersey in the woods. The remains of the former lay about 300 yards from the place where Stump dismounted, and was bitten about the head, showing that he soon fell a prey to the ferocity and energy of grizzly after she had thrown her rider. Jersey's half eaten body was found near the old bear's den with the marks of knife across his throat, showing that he had been murdered and robbed by the treacherous West.

A Safe Guard.

Few people living in a malarial country but occasionally need a vigorous tonic, either to keep off the malarial fever or else to cure the disease if it once gets into the system. There is no more uncomfortable disease than malaria, which affects humanity from chills and fever. It drives away energy and ambition. It makes one feel sick and mean all over. A safe guard against the disease and a sure cure is Smith's Tonic Syrup, made by Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky. A single bottle will do for an entire family. It is far better than quinine, as no derangement of the system ever follows its use. The use of quinine causes a buzzing in the ears, dizzy sensations, nausea and sometimes even convulsions and paralysis. Use Smith's Tonic Syrup and all such danger is avoided. In fact it has all the good medicinal qualities of quinine with none of its evil nature.

Louisville &amp; Nashville Directors.

The directors of the Louisville and Nashville railway company will hold their semi-annual meeting during the earlier part of July, and will then take action upon the payment of a dividend. Many of the board will favor the distribution of 2½ per cent, and will suggest that $500,000 scrip, which still remains in the company's treasury, be used for betterments and improvements, which would be in direct line with the resolutions adopted at the meeting of stockholders in Louisville in October, 1888. The statement for the period calling for the dividends will, it is expected, show an enormous increase both in the gross and net returns as compared with a year ago.—Age-Herald.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cents, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup and Whooping Cough at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, side of chest, use Shiloh's Porus Plaster.

AN EVENING INVOCATION.

BY JOHN RAY.

"Mother of God! as evening falls
Upon the silent sea,
And shadows veil the mountain walls
To lift our souls to thee!

From lurking perils of the night,
The desert's hidden harms,
From plagues that waste, from blasts that smite,
Protect thy men-at-arms!

"Mother of God! thy starry smiles
Still bless us from above!
Keep pure our souls from passion's guile,
Our hearts from earthly love!

Still save each soul from guilt apart
As stainless as each sword,
And guard undimmed in every heart
The image of our Lord.

"In desert's march or battle's flame,
In fortress or in field,
Our war-cry is thy holy name,
Thy love our joy and shield,

And if we falter let their power
Thy stern avenger be,
And God forget us in the hour
We cease to think of thee!

"Mother of God! the evening fades
On wave and hill and lea,
And in the twilight's deepening shades
We lift our souls to thee!

In passion's stress—the battle's strife
The desert's lurking harms,
Maid-Mother of the Lord of Life,
Protect thy men-at-arms."

Gifts of Friendship.

From The Gadsden Leader.

The gift of the President of the United States—that is what it really was, although it took the indirect shape of a gift to Mrs. Harrison of a costly 20-room cottage at Cape May attracts a great deal of attention, and is held to indicate that the same practices that were so disgracefully common under the Grant regime have once more obtained a foothold at the capital. When the president sets the example of receiving gifts it will be speedily followed by his subordinates who have patronage to bestow. The Chicago Herald comments:

It is bad enough that John Wanamaker, who raised a gigantic corruption fund in 1888, should have been paid for his services by an appointment to the cabinet, but it is even worse that he should characterize his official career by making such gifts to the wife of the man who placed him, and that his insulting generosity should be accepted without a blush. With this wretched example in high places we may look for a speedy revival of gift giving and gift taking. It is an easy descent from cottages by the sea to bull pups and packages of greenbacks.

The Harrison administration, adds the Herald, "entered office bound and gagged by the corrupt and vicious elements of the party. It has gone speedily from bad to worse. The gift-taking stage has now been reached." The Boston Post says:

The acceptance of gifts from citizens by the person holding the office of President of the United States has always been held indecorous, and it does not relieve the situation, but rather causes greater embarrassment if the gift is made indirectly through the wife of the President. Mrs. Harrison is an estimable woman, but no unknown admirer would send her the deed of a cottage at Cape May by the hands of Mr. John Wanamaker if she were not the President's wife as well as the wife of General Harrison. When the Hon. Hugh J. Grant manifested his affection and admiration for Miss Flossie Croker by the gift of $10,000 in bills, the district of Columbia became so alarming that Father Croker was called back across the seas to explain how it happened.

The Republican papers were much concerned about Mayor Grant's gift to the Croker girl. The Pittsburg Gazette wants an investigation of this incident. Wherein does it differ—save it is less offensive—from the gift of the 20-room cottage at Cape May to the Harrisons? Grover Cleveland held the correct view as to such matters, and during his term as President refused for himself and wife to accept gifts from anyone of any money value, and in some instances when they were forced on him sent them back to the donors with thanks.

I use Smith's Tonic Syrup in my practice, and am determined to use it so long as it gives such excellent satisfaction in cases of chills and fever.—John P. Musbat, Calhoun, Ala.

At the great land sale at Kimball, Tenn., last week, 331 lots were sold for $494,500, an average of $1,514 per lot.

A TERRIBLE COLLISION.

East Tennessee Passenger Train Telescoped.

CALERA, June 23.—Calera witnessed a terrible collision on the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia road yesterday. The northbound passenger train due here at 9:20 a. m. arrived on time. The engine was cut loose and ran up to the chute to take on a new supply of coal. While standing at the chute a long freight train came around the curve running at the rate of thirty miles an hour, and within a few hundred feet of the passenger engine.

Engineer Griffin, who had charge of the engine reversed his lever and jumped to the ground accompanied by his firemen. He had jumped none too soon for in an instant the freight train had struck his engine and sent it flying down the track towards the depot where the passenger train stood. Engineer Welsh of the freight train jumped from his engine before it struck the passenger engine and in doing so broke his arm. Both engines and one or two cars were demolished. When Baggageman Edward Cooper saw the freight train approaching at such a rapid rate he surmised the trouble and ran through the coaches warning the passengers of the impending danger. All made for the doors and in the rush the little child of Berry Kegg was trampled on and badly hurt. Mrs. Abner Pitner, wife of the conductor of the passenger train, was thrown against the water cooler and sustained serious injuries.

Ella West, colored, nurse of O. M. Reynolds was killed, and Mr. Reynolds's child received severe injuries. All the passengers succeeded in getting out of the coaches before the crash came.

The collision was caused by the freight running on the passenger train's time. The freight crew wanted to make the Calera switch before side-tracking for the passenger.

Hot Springs.

Have you ever visited Hot Springs? Alas! You meet while there so many instances of terrible blood poison, evidenced by disfigurement of face and form. Hither, rush sufferers from scrofula, syphilis, eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, blemished skin, twisted and aching joints, limbs made crooked by rheumatism, etc. Some find relief, some do not and come away poor in purse and grievously disappointed. It costs money to visit and to sojourn at Hot Springs. The experiment of going there cannot be indulged in without considerable expense. How thankful then should everyone be to know there is a remedy even more beneficial in cases of blood poison than Hot Springs. We refer to Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) as to its merits thousand will testify.

Z. T. Hallerton, Macon, Ga. writes: "I contracted blood poison. I first tried physicians, and then went to Hot Springs. I returned home a ruined man physically. Nothing seemed to do me any good. My mother persuaded me to try B. B. B. To my utter astonishment every ulcer quickly healed."

Jas. L. Bosworth, Atlanta, Ga. says: "Some years ago I contracted blood poison. I had no appetite, my digestion was ruined, rheumatism drew up my limbs, so I could hardly walk, my throat was cancerized five times. Hot Springs gave me no benefit and my life was one of torture until I gave B. B. B. a trial, and surprising as it may seem, the use of five bottles cured me."

Need of Good County Roads.

The following timely remarks of the Wartrace Advance calls the attention of the farmers of Tennessee to the meeting of the Road Convention for Nashville, which is appointed for August next. It is a very important convention, and should be productive of good results.

"One of the heaviest taxes levied on the farmer of the country is imposed by poor roads. They double the cost of hauling stuff to and from market, because they double the number of loads; they take the life and energy out of the team by making it hard traveling, hard pulling and an everlasting jolting and jerking, well calculated to make a horse balk; they break the harness, cause extra wear of it and keep it soiled with sweat and mud; they strain, rack and break the wagon, necessitating the use of a heavier one than would be needed on a good road, and largely reduce the period of its usefulness; they cause a loss of time by slow driving and frequent breakdowns, and tax the patience as well as the purse. In fact, they are a costly nuisance which would not be endured if farmers realized the extent to which they are taxed by their use—an injury to everybody and a benefit to nobody."

Cruel, fashionable mother! Why don't you look after the welfare of your sickly child? The nurse hasn't sense enough to get it a box of Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers.

COUNTY DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE,
W. P. COOPER.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT,
M. H. LANE.

Hon. James Crook will probably deliver several speeches in different sections of the State during the present campaign.

Hon. John H. Caldwell was prevented from attending the masonic celebration at Oxford Lake this week by sickness.

We are glad to learn that the infant of Mr. Mallory Reynolds, which was hurt in the railroad accident at Calera, is improving.

At the meeting of the International Sunday School Convention held this week in Pittsburgh, Major J. Gideon Harris, of this State, was elected President.

The Calhoun County Medical Society will meet in the city of Anniston next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. All the physicians in the county are requested to attend.

Those who have the greatest opportunities for knowing what manufacturing industries are to be located here, claim that by January, 1932, Jacksonville will have a population of not less than 18,000.

The clay which was sent away to be tested for the brick works has been made into brick, and the brick are now being burned. As soon as it is ascertained that the clay is all right, the brick works will be started.

The Jacksonville Normal school has been honored at the State Teachers' Association this week. Prof. D. L. Earnest was elected secretary and treasurer of the Normal Department, and Miss Minnie Anderson elected a member of the Executive Committee of the same department.

Prof. Titcomb, of Anniston, introduced a resolution before the State Teachers' Association favoring the establishment of an industrial college for women. The women of Alabama have no warmer friend among the old bachelors than Prof. Titcomb.

In the gubernatorial canvass in South Carolina Tillman seems to be having things pretty much his own way. A strong effort is being made to have Gen. Haskell enter the race against Tillman. If he decides to announce he will make things lively.

The Democratic Executive Committee has resolved to make an active canvass of the State. The campaign will open in Eufaula on the 8th day of July. The people of this section are anxious to meet Gov. Tom Jones, and an arrangement should be made to have him speak in Jacksonville during the campaign.

The new hotel being built at the springs near Piedmont by the Piedmont Land and Improvement company will be completed this week. Mr. W. G. Ledbetter has also built near the hotel a neat cottage, which his family will occupy this summer. The new hotel is built on the lot recently owned by Dr. Clark. This for many years has been recognized as a desirable summer resort, and no doubt the new hotel will be crowded all this summer.

We are glad to hear that things are moving lively at Piedmont. May our neighbor grow and become a prosperous city. This is precisely what she will do. She will certainly grow and become a prosperous city; and it is not going to be more than two years before she becomes a prosperous city, either. Men who have a right to know, say that within two years she will have between fifteen and twenty thousand people. This is the kind of a growth she is now pulling for, and it is generally believed here that she will reach the mark of her high ambition.

OUR MANGANESE DEPOSITS.

Mr. T. S. McDaniel, the mining engineer for the Jacksonville Mining & Manufacturing Company, is delighted with the discovery which he is making as to the deposits of manganese in and around Jacksonville.

In conversation with a reporter of the REPUBLICAN a few days since he talked enthusiastically as to the quality and value of the deposits of manganese here, and among many other encouraging things he said:

"The openings on the manganese cuts are proving more than satisfactory."

"The cut that was reported two weeks ago as being found in the city limits, has been driven 25 feet in length, 5 feet deep in manganese, and the deeper the cut goes the better the manganese shows up."

"Since the above discovery was reported another has been made. This mine was discovered by the company's mining engineer. It is in the southern portion of the city limits, and less than a mile from the court house. A squad of hands have been opening a cut in it, which is proving more than satisfactory. The cut is now 7 feet wide and faces 8 feet perpendicular through solid manganese."

"These two cuts have removed all skepticism from the minds of all our people who have taken the trouble to investigate them. If there is any person who entertains any doubt as to the quantity and quality of manganese here necessary to justify the establishment of a ferro-manganese plant, all that such an one will have to do to be convinced, is to visit the openings made by the company's engineer, who will take pleasure in showing openings to all visitors."

LETTER FROM TATE SPRING.

TATE SPRING, TENN., June 24, '90.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:—Tomorrow will wind up the first week of the stay of our party at this place. The water seems to have had a more beneficial effect up to this time upon Mr. Jeff Crow than on any member of our party, though all have felt its improving quality to a greater or less extent. Mr. Vernon and daughter Mrs. Miller will leave tomorrow for Lee's Springs or Asheville, N. C., and will go thence to Spartanburg, S. C., the old home of Mr. Vernon. As I said in my first letter the remainder of our party may go to Asheville later. Among the Alabama visitors here this season are J. A. Harris, S. C. Marks and family, W. D. Bankhead, Mrs. N. J. Bell and Miss Annie Bell, of Montgomery; Dr. H. M. Caldwell and family, F. P. O'Brien and W. C. Hammond, of Birmingham; Dr. A. W. Jones and family, B. S. Melville and child, W. J. Waugh, R. H. Lanford, M. W. Coleman, of Selma; Joe Renfro, of Opelika, T. J. Mills of Randolph, Mrs. O. E. Smith and children, Mr. W. A. Robertson of Anniston, and our party from Jacksonville. People are coming and going every day and more Alabamians are expected. Seven hundred visitors can be accommodated here, but there are probably not more than half that number here now, though it is early in the season. The waters are said to be good for nearly all ailments to which human flesh is heir to except lung troubles. Those who have weak lungs cannot stand the use of the waters. A good Italian band is here from Birmingham and the young people have their dances every night. The older people are more sedate, they being strictly in search of health. If any of your readers enjoy hearing people talk about the state of their health this is the place to come to. Nearly every man you meet takes great pleasure in telling you just what is troubling him. The REPUBLICAN, Hot Blast and Montgomery Advertiser come regularly and are a great source of pleasure. As a matter of course our party greatly enjoyed the last issue of the REPUBLICAN on account of its local news. The paper is so much better on account of the absence of your correspondent that I think I shall stay away all summer. If the money holds out. The Hot Blast every day also gives us a great deal of local news from Jacksonville, which makes it particularly acceptable. The Hot Blast is a good friend of Jacksonville and our people ought to patronize it well on that account outside of its intrinsic merit. The Advertiser is enjoyed because of its general State news and its sound and unsensational democracy. Luck to all three of them. We have all admired Tredegar and Jacksonville well here. We have circulated largely the pamphlet containing Mr. West's admirable letters when he was correspondent of the Manufacturers' Record. Talk up your town everywhere. It don't hurt.

L. W. G.

THE MOUNTAIN ROAD.

Jacksonville could make no better investment than to spend a thousand dollars in improving the road across the mountain. There is much valuable trade in the valleys over the mountain which Jacksonville must secure and hold, and she can only do this by making a first-class highway over which the people can travel. This road is now as good as the average road in the country, and a thousand dollars will put it in good condition. Let the business men think of this and raise a fund to make this a first-class road before the fall trade.

The Supt. of Education of this county has received the public school money for the present quarter and will be glad to pay the teachers who will present their quarterly reports.

JACK LOGAN FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

Rev. Jack Logan, col., has definitely decided to enter the race for Representative in this county. He says that he is running on the Republican ticket and that he will make his first speech in the city of Anniston at an early date. We are inclined to the opinion that Jack will find that even the "coons" will not give him a solid support.

Hon. L. W. Grant speaks complimentary of the work on the REPUBLICAN last week and threatens to stay away as long as the money holds out; but we think a stay of two or three weeks at Tate's will so invite him that he can return without having any need for the "elixir of life," and that he will return in such good shape that he can easily hold the REPUBLICAN up to that high standard which it has maintained for a number of years.

A LIVELY PICNIC.

Last Saturday morning the dark skinned gullant young gentlemen of this place hired all the conveyances in the stable of Martin & Wilkerson, and all other conveyances that they could secure, and together with their dusky young damsels hied themselves away to Sulphur Springs to enjoy the pleasures of a picnic occasion.

Among the other refreshments which were carried, we learn that there was a good supply of the over-joyful—which by the way is nearly always on hand at a negro picnic and which puts the darkeys in the right humor to perform the taborial act on each others throat.

As is usually the case, from what we can gather those present took as much of the juice of the corn as the could pay for, and it soon had them in the right humor for using the razor and the pistol.

Just how the entertainment opened they refuse to tell but they brought back unmistakable evidences of the fact that it was lively and interesting.

Mat Jelks was hauled home in a buggy after having lost a considerable quantity of blood from a wound in the leg. He affirmed that he was not cut with a razor in the fracas, but that he was accidentally shot in the leg. Upon examination by the doctors it was ascertained that it was the razor which did the work, and that Mat had made a narrow escape from death from hemorrhage.

Cas. Fox brought home with him a wound on the side of his head and a scratch on the back of his neck, which showed that a razor had been used by an expert. He also now carries with him a cartridge in the left arm which he says he received from the pistol of a friend accidentally.

From what we gather, Bob Draper is the darkey who used the razor. After getting in his work on Mat and Cas he ran, and there were fifteen or twenty shots fired at him. As he has not been found since then, it is not known whether any of the balls pierced his black skin or not. While the particulars of this affair may never be known, it can be recorded as a lively picnic for the darkeys, and one, in which the town dudes got the worst of the entertainment.

SAM SLIM.

He Don't Believe That Tight Lacing Ever Killed One—The World Is Growing Better Every Day.

FOR REPUBLICAN.

It is so common with grown up people to say and think, and consider and really believe, that the world is getting worse and going to smash, and that the good time has passed and people do not enjoy themselves now like they use to do. People who are old enough will recollect that forty-five or fifty years ago there was a song, a popular song that was sung and sung till the little negroes and the big ones too, learned it by heart. Here is a part of it:

"This very place was not a village, Lawyers were not allowed to pillage, Christmas had its Christmas right, And the ladies didn't die from lacing tight."

Then came in the chorus: "I grieve, I grieve, For the good old days of Adam and Eve."

From that time to this, I've never seen a piece of woodland that was injured by being made into a village. I've always considered that houses and people suited better than trees and snakes and lizards.

Lawyers have always treated me as cleverly as other people have, and as a class, I have always found that they compared favorably with the very best, and are no more addicted to pillaging than other people.

And as to Christmas, if she has ever been cheated out of any of her rights it was done before my recollection; she's always held her own since I found her acquaintance and I have enjoyed every Christmas since I could recollect, but every one is its own order.

And as to ladies dying from lacing tight, I've failed to find one. I think I was grown before I ever saw a white dead mule; I have, however, seen several of them, and am convinced now that white mules do die. But I've never seen a woman who died from tight lacing. I used to take applications for life insurance, yet I never had the cause of death of any female relation called tight lacing. I have never heard any physician say his patient died from tight lacing. Fact is we lords of creation have now, and always have had, too much to say about the way the ladies dress. Wouldn't I make a botch if I should dictate to Mrs. Slim, how she should dress, how they should fit, what she should wear and how she should wear it? You bet I would, and I know about as much about such things as most men. So far as I am concerned they shall have their own sweet will. And say you men folks, there'll be fewer curtain lectures and smoother sailing at home if you will "go and do likewise." And then the idea of any one grieving for the days of Adam and Eve. Why there was no town to go to, no neighbors to visit, no dummy line to ride on; hunting and fishing might have been good, but guns were scarce, and fish hooks, none at all. Let me tell you that that was too lonesome a time for me. Suppose that Mrs. Slim and I lived in this broad world with nothing in it but mountains, valleys, woodland and prairie, wild animals, fishes and birds; do you think I'd enjoy it? Not much. More than a hundred years ago, Cowper in the Task, wrote in the same strain and intimated that the good time was done passed, and was getting so rotten that I really believe, if I had fallen to pieces in his day he would not have been surprised. That's all bosh about the badness of the world now and the goodness of it in the long ago. I believe the world is better, more attractive, more desirable and a better place to live in to-day than it ever has been, and it will be better to-morrow than to-day, and better the next day than to-morrow, and it will go on growing better and better till "The knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth, as the waters cover the great deep."

What Kind of Advertising Pays?

So many houses are now claiming in large type, each to sell goods from 20 to 50 per cent. cheaper than any other house, that we believe sensible people disgrist with these improbable yarns, are paying but little attention to display ads. For that reason we have taken but little space in the papers but have adopted the plan of advertising our own counters by offering every week some few things at less than real value, and by keeping every department fresh all the time with novelties. It seems to work well. Our trade is growing very fast.

This week we shall offer many styles of WASH DRESS GOODS, including Thin Black Goods, White Goods, Printed Mulls, Batiste, Lawns, Challus and Scotch and French Ginghams. They are all marked in plain figures. Drop in and look at them.
